EXPERT REX'S REPORT

Municipal Council Will Ask Him to Prove His Statements

The municipal council will meet tomorrow afternoon and will take some definite action on the matter of a contagious hospital site. The report of the expert accountant, Mr. Rex, will come before the board and one of the commissioners stated today that he thought Mr. Rex should be summoned to explain his criticism of officials and methods employed in certain offices.

The board is not by any means unanimous in desiring to accept Mr. Rex's report with the understanding that everything contained therein is the gospel truth. At least two of the commissioners are from Missouri, so to speak, and they want to be shown. The assessors of taxes declare that Mr. Rex made statements that had no foundation, in fact and it is up to Mr. Rex to prove his statements. That's about the way the thing is figured out at city hall. Mr. Rex's bill hasn't been paid yet and, as a matter of fact, he has not submitted it and Alderman Barrett said today that the bill ought not to be paid until Mr. Rex had made good on his charges. If Mr. Rex makes good then it is up to the municipal council to do the rest. The chances are the meeting tomorrow afternoon will be a very lively and a very interesting one.

The Great White Way

The commissioner of streets and highways will have a bunch of petitions to present at tomorrow's meeting and there is one, that is, said to have to do with the great white way proposed by the commissioner in the long ago. The petition in question is from the Lowell Electric Light company for permission to attach wires temporarily, to poles in Merrimack and John streets. It is said that the corporation will demonstrate a light such as would be used providing the municipal council should vote for a great white way.

The New Reservoir

Work on the new reservoir in Centralville was resumed this morning after a lapse of time that dated back to the cold weather period and covered several weeks. Commissioner Barrett said today that everything would be in readiness for the concrete work in a few days. Cyrus Barton has the contract for the concrete work and one of the stipulations of the contract is that he shall employ Lowell labor and that the laborers shall work the same number of hours as the city laborers, eight hours a day. The machine for shaping the steel to be used in the reservoir is on the ground and will be put in operation within a day or two. The machine was bought new and cost about $50. The work being done at the reservoir at the present time includes excavation work and the laying of the 30-inch pipe from the new reservoir to connect with the old system at the corner of Beacon and Sixth streets.

New Boulevard Wells

Just as soon as the special castings ordered for the new wells at the boulevard arrive the system will be opened up. The work of installing the wells will be in readiness when the castings arrive and they are now on the way. It is expected that the new wells will be more productive than the old wells and the old wells and the latter will be given a good rest just as soon as the new wells are made ready for business.

ances arising in future, agree to meet committees of your employees, without any interference of outside parties, be they officers of labor organizations or any other parties, for possible adjustment of all controversies?

Believing that you are sincere in your desire to establish industrial peace in Lowell, Mass., we feel safe in assuming that you will take up these

WOLFGANG HERE

Clever Pitcher Reported This Morning

Wolfgang and Miller, the two players released from the St. Louis American league team to the Lowell team of the New England league arrived in Lowell today. Both are in fine condition and ready to start right in. Miller is a first baseman and is said to be a corker. Manager Gray will give him a thorough test. Wolfgang is the pitcher and he is said to be a corker. He is not only the best pitcher in the league, but is a perfect gentleman, and has many admirers here. Last year he did more to bring the pennant to this city than any other player in the team. He is a great pitcher, a good batter and can also fill in other positions. Wolfgang and Miller will join the squad at the park today, weather permitting.

No Game

The game scheduled between Lowell and the Rosindale team for this afternoon was postponed on account of the unfavorable weather.

PASSENGERS SAFE

THE TITANIC, THE LARGEST STEAMSHIP IN THE WORLD

Steamer Badly Damaged Crawls Towards Halifax, 600 Miles Off

Wireless despatches up to noon today showed that the passengers on the monster White Star liner Titanic, which struck an iceberg off the New Foundland coast last night, were being transferred aboard the steamer Carpathia, a Cunarder which left New York April 13th for Naples.

Already 20 boatloads of the Titanic's passengers have been transferred aboard the Carpathia and allowing 40 to 60 people as the capacity of each lifeboat some 800 or 1200 people have already been transferred from the damaged liner to the Carpathia. Another liner, the Parisian, of the Allan company, which sailed from Glasgow for Halifax on April 6th is already close at hand and assisting in the work of rescue. The Baltic and Virginian are also near the scene and the Olympic, the sister ship of the Titanic, is apparently near at hand, as the wireless information concerning the transfer comes from Captain Haddock of the Olympic.

The latest reports indicate that the transfer of passengers is being carried on successfully, and safely. The sea is smooth and the weather calm. It is probable that all of the passengers of the Titanic are safe.

While badly damaged the Titanic is still afloat and is reported to be making her way toward Halifax under her own steam.

The accident occurred at 10:25 last night at a point about 400 miles south of Cape Race, N. F., and about 1100 miles east of New York.

The Titanic is the largest steamer ever built. She is 882 feet long and has 46,328 tons displacement. She was launched last May and this was her maiden trip.

Among the passengers aboard are Col. and Mrs. J. J. Astor, Alfred Vanderbilt, Major Butt, military aide to President Taft, F. D. Millet, the artist, and William T. Stead, the English writer. The liner carries 1400 passengers and a crew of 800.

STORY OF DISASTER

NEW YORK, April 15.—A wireless message from the White Star line steamer Titanic received shortly after midnight today announced that the giant liner had struck an iceberg off the banks of Newfoundland and was in a sinking condition. Transfer of the passengers to the lifeboats began at once. The accident occurred at 10:25 o'clock last night. Two hours later the ship's wireless apparatus, which had been working so badly as to permit of only intermittent communication, was reported to be in operation. Major Archibald Butt, aide of President Taft, F. D. Millet, the artist, Mr. and Mrs. Isador Straus, J.

and many other passengers, failed to get into the lifeboats and were completely drowned. The last words sent by the operator told that the vessel was apparently doomed, "sinking by the head" and that the women passengers were being rushed into the lifeboats. A reassuring feature was that the weather was calm and clear and likely only a few hours away.

The First Message

The Titanic's first "S. O. S." message was received by the Allan liner Virginian, which, according to the position given by the Titanic's operator, was not more than 170 miles away. The captain of the Virginian at once started his boat at full steam for the scene of the disaster, announcing to his brother officer on the bridge of the Titanic that the Virginian should reach him by ten o'clock this morning.

The Titanic's accident happened in latitude 41.16 north, longitude 50.14 west. This point is about 1150 miles due east of New York city and 150 miles south of the Cape Race, New Foundland, wireless station. All the messages from the ship were relayed to the Cape Race wireless station by the Virginian and forwarded by the Marconi company to New York city. The Titanic's twin ship Olympic, which left New York last week, was also in direct communication with the sinking boat from a point about 300 miles away and started at once for the scene. The Titanic, which is on her maiden trip, is in charge of Captain Smith who was on the bridge of the big Olympic when that boat collided with the British cruiser Hawke last September. The Titanic carries 1470 passengers. The passenger list is a notable one, including Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Alfred Gwynne G. Widener, of Philadelphia, J. B. Ismay, managing director of the White Star line, Benjamin Guggenheim, W. T. Stead and others.

Steamship men here today charac-terize the disaster "as the most startling news which has come from the sea since the advent of wireless telegraphy." The first news of the disaster was at one o'clock this morning when a bulletin stated that the ship was in distress.

Word From Cape Race

Immediate inquiry by the Associated Press in an urgent despatch to the Marconi station at Cape Race was answered soon afterward in the following words: "At 10:25 last night the steamship Titanic, C. Q. D., and reported having struck an iceberg." The steamer said that immediate assistance was required. Half an hour afterwards another message came reporting that they were sinking by the head and that the women were being put off in small boats.

"The weather was calm and clear, the Titanic's wireless operator reported and he gave the position of the vessel as 41.6 north latitude and 50.14 west longitude. The Marconi station at Cape Race notified the Allan liner Virginian, the captain of which immediately advised that he was proceeding for the scene of the disaster. "The Virginian at midnight was about 170 miles distant from the Titanic and expected to reach the vessel about 10 a. m. Monday.

"The Olympic was at midnight in direct communication with the Titanic and is now making all haste toward her. The steamer Baltic also reported herself as about 200 miles east of the Titanic at 1.15 a. m. and making all possible speed toward her.

Signals Were Blurred

"The last signals from the Titanic were heard by the Virginian at 12:27 a. m. The wireless operator on the Virginian says these signals were blurred and ended abruptly. "Nothing could have caused much greater alarm than did this message in New York this morning. The Titanic is the biggest boat in the world. She has on board more than 2000 persons, 1470 passengers and a crew of 800 men. A large percentage, if not a majority of the passengers, are Americans.

The newspaper offices were besieged by inquiries from hundreds of persons shocked by the fragmentary newspaper despatches seen at the breakfast tables but in the early morning hours there was nothing vital to add to the alarming reports from Cape Race. Something further was expected every moment but there was no word from the ship.

STRIKERS TO ACCEPT

Many of Them Vote to Return to Work Monday

Although the sentiment of the different nationalities points to an acceptance of the increase offered by the mill officials, the strike is not as yet settled, and the members of the I. W. W. still do picket duty. Delegates representing the different nationalities called upon the agents of their respective mills this morning with a letter asking for certain concessions besides the 10 per cent. increase and according to reports three of the agents were seen and they promised to grant the demands as presented by the strike committee. Private meetings of the various nationalities will be held within the next two days and a vote will be taken as to whether or not the operatives are willing to accept the agents' terms. Later the delegates will report to the strike committee and a final vote will be taken. The delegates expressed their opinion at the meeting which was held this morning and with the exception of a couple, all are in favor of accepting the increase and return to work.

The loomfixers and the mule spinners held meetings this morning and voted to accept the mill officials' offer and return to work on Monday, and besides they voted to grant permission to all those who would be asked to go to work this week to do so and consequently a large number of loomfixers resumed work in the various mills this morning in order to get the looms in shape for Monday.

The parade held this morning in connection with picketing was by far the largest ever held. It is calculated that over 4000 people were in line. There was much cheering but no trouble.

THIS MORNING'S PARADE

THE LARGEST HELD YET

The Lithuanian band and several other musicians headed the parade this morning and the marchers carried a red pennant with the inscription "Life" while two parties carried a large white flag bearing the inscription "We have $100,000 Strike Funds." The large gathering assembled in Jackson street early and marched through the various mill districts, cheering and shouting as usual. "We want 15 per cent. or nothing." All went along in a peaceful way, however, and there was no disturbance or arrest reported.

At 10 o'clock the strike committee of the I. W. W. met in Higgins' hall and held an enthusiastic meeting. The hall was literally crowded and as on Saturday many could not gain admittance. The main topic of the meeting was the report of the committee who were appointed to interview the agents, and a general discussion of a ten per cent. increase.

LETTERS WERE TAKEN

TO THE MILL AGENTS

After the routine business had been disposed of, Mr. Trautman said that a committee had reached Secretary Whittier of the Mill Agents' association Saturday afternoon on the telephone and they were informed by Mr. Whittier that he had no objections to meeting a committee composed of his own employees, and accordingly the following letter was written and committees were instructed to go to their respective mills and present the same to the agent:

Lowell, Mass., April 15, 1912.

Dear Sirs:

The bearers of this letter are a committee of your own employees. They represent only the employees of your own concern. They are delegated, with no power either to accept or reject, to ascertain:

1. What is the increase in wages offered by your concern to your employees?
2. Is this increase to be graduated, or is it a flat increase for all employees?
3. If the increase is to be graduated, will you furnish a detailed schedule, based on weekly earnings, showing old and new scales?
4. Are any provisions to be made for the extra payment of overtime, or its abolition, partly or in whole?
5. Are any discriminations to be shown against any of your employees for participating or being active in this strike?
6. Will you, in accordance with your employees' demand, and in accordance with the law of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, allow the measurement or weighing of cloth by the weaver who makes it, a just measurement and devoid of fraudulent intent?
7. Will you, in the event of grievances arising in future, agree to meet committees of your employees, without any interference of outside parties, be they officers of labor organizations or any other parties, for possible adjustment of all controversies?

Yours truly, over and congratulated him on the manner in which the pollsters had done. "The pollsters here," he said, "were better than we experienced in any part of the country. Everything was perfect and Mr. Roosevelt was asked me to congratulate you." "Thanks to Mr. Roosevelt and your staff," said Supt. Welch. "Our desire is to do everything in the best way possible and as a general rule, that's the way we do it."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke from a platform on the easterly side of the station and he reached the platform the way the depot entrance. It was here that the perfect pollsters showed their hand. The train being secured like bees, but away from the car to the platform was kept absolutely clear.

William N. Osgood of this city, who had accompanied the Roosevelt party through New Hampshire during the day, introduced the colonel as "the next president of the United States." In part, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Recently I saw that Mr. Butler Ames of your city was reported as saying that he would rather be defeated with Taft than elected with me. I don't often agree with Butler Ames in matters political, but I most heartily agree with him in this case. I would rather see him defeated with anybody than be elected with me."

"I want to congratulate the people of Massachusetts on their progressive action in voting for a direct primary for the presidential nomination, but I hope that your legislators will not stop at that. I would like to see you elect your senators by direct vote. When I ask for genuine popular rule, I ask that the people be given the same chance that the individual has in his relations with the individual."

"We all make mistakes now and then, but when I make them I want to make them myself. I don't want someone else to make them for me. If I make them myself, I won't make them twice, while someone else may. In the long run, day in and day out, the American people will govern themselves better than anyone acting for them as a representative party."

"I stand for a more direct government by the people. Whenever you shirk a job, you will find another man ready to take it up and work it for his own interests. In politics, it is the same. If you waive your rights, and delegate your power to others, the masses will assume full control. That is why I have been asking for a presidential primary, and now, in this state, you have the opportunity of saying whether you are with me or with the politicians. I want to see Massachusetts continue in advance of the procession, as she has in the past; if you don't go forward, you are sure to go back."

"I cannot enter into a discussion of the campaign. I simply ask you to judge my words by my deeds. Among the many accusations which the interests have hurled at me (and there are many of which I have not been accused) is that I am a 'dictator,' but did you ever hear of me dictating to the people? I know the American people are fit to govern themselves and can do it better than a representative minority, and I hope that the American people will take the trouble to do it. I base my belief in the future of America on my knowledge of the American people."

Forfeits His Life to Researches

BOSTON, April 15.—Dr. Louis Nelson, a young physician of Boston, was had been winning a name for himself by his researches in bacteriology and yesterday at the Eliot hospital, Anderson road, as the result of his experiments.

Dr. Nelson for the past year has been an instructor at the Harvard Medical school and for six months had been making a study of the recently discovered "gas bacilli" which are believed to generate the gases in the human system.

While engaged in his laboratory experiments he became inoculated by these bacilli some eight weeks ago and had grown steadily worse. He was taken to the Eliot hospital and an operation was planned, but it was found the bacilli had produced intestinal inflammation too severe to permit of this attempt to save his life.

GREAT REVOLUTION

Stirring the Heart of All Mankind

SAYS REV. CLARENCE R. SKINNER OF GRACE UNIV. CHURCH

Revolution Indicated by Strikes—Rev. Sarah A. Dixon Says Whole Tendency of Present Day is to Come at the Truth

Rev. Clarence R. Skinner of the Grace Universalist church, spoke Sunday morning on "The Twentieth Century Revolution," and said that the strikes here and elsewhere are all simply phenomena of a great revolution that is stirring the heart of all mankind.

"Part of the great disturbance that we have today," he said, "is carried on under the influence of that old 18th century philosophy. The man who has great power believe in individual rights, in liberty, in equality, in democracy. On the other hand, there is coming in its turn, the demand of the laboring class for its equality. Its rights is democracy. It is largely the protest of the 18th century against tyranny, the tyranny that is grasping in its own hands all that it may obtain."

"Personally I sympathize with the laborer in this great revolution, because he has not had his rights, because he has been the subject of tyranny under all forms of government, but I do not recognize that underlying every protest is exactly the same tyranny as that against which he protests—the desire to know the means of life and to turn them into advantages for themselves. It will result in another tyranny, with the laboring class at the top instead of the industrial class. The 18th century had no hope. If the laborer wins his strike tomorrow it is in the hand of the capitalist to raise the price of the product and the day after tomorrow the status of the laborer is simply what it is today. It is simply a prolongation of the 18th century revolution, where every man jumps into the great mass of life and tears out of it what he can get."

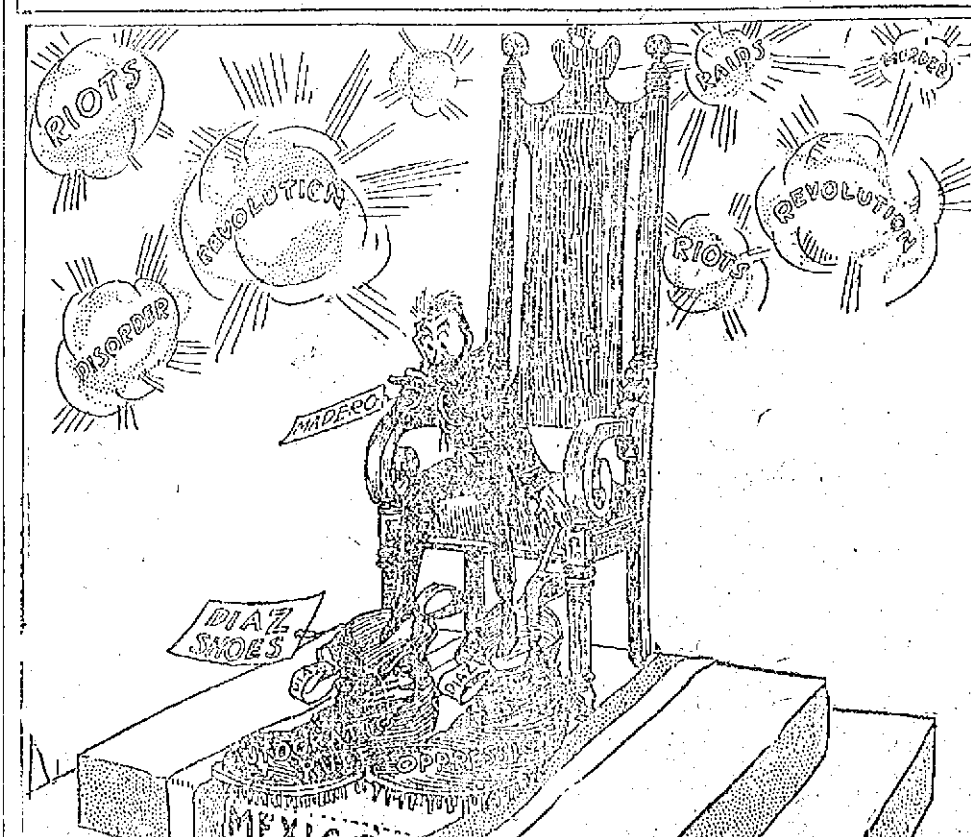

"As a result of this rebellion of government to the lowest common denominator, we have the triumph of the principle of every man's right to do what he pleases. Therefore we have the adulteration of food; therefore we sell two thousand ounces of cocaine every year to this nation; and we must be those things go on, because men have rights. Therefore we have the steel industry working most 16 hours a day seven days a week; because we must allow every man to be free."

Seeking the Truth

At the Highland Methodist church Sunday morning, Rev. Sarah A. Dixon, Ph. D., spoke on "Truth."

"The whole tendency of the present day," she said, "is to come at the truth. In politics, religion and social life we want the truth. Those who are unwilling to try for it are unworthy to be leaders. In fact they are not leaders whatever their position. The present temper of men is to reach down to the facts. They are not how far down they go if they only strike fundamental facts. We are becoming indifferent to theories, groundless enthusiasms, and

These will always be the delight of some, and the desire of others, but the rank and file of sensible people today, are demanding facts and sane conclusions. We are all nourished by the common every day life, there is no really exalted soul that receives from the world of men, however high a soul may reach, be sure it roots itself in the duties and thoughts which are common to us all. The outer world by its beauty nourishes the arts, by its order nourishes the sciences, by its goodness nourishes the saints. The best producers are themselves, in some measure, a product of the common life. Each one must contribute his share to this common store. Our destiny is not only to preserve our own integrity, but to add to the universal life such moral elements that every one else's integrity shall be secured. We are to give out of our best so that every one else can reach a better best. To strengthen life's foundations, to uncover its beauties, to refine its instincts, to fill it with the fragrance of a rare personality this is the contribution which every one should aspire to make in his earthly existence.

If we fail to do this, it not only affects, as we have seen, from his character and efficiency, but the general life is less rich and productive. Do not look for great productions or men when the body politic is corrupt. Do not expect to harvest efficiency when the universal life is sterile. Every trait, whether hidden or public adds to the general unproductiveness, and is easily seen and known. It is in this sense that the words of Jesus are forever true. There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed or hid that shall not be known.

Police Didn't Believe His Threat to Commit Suicide

George A. Richards, the man who tried to bluff the police that he had committed suicide, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with illegal colli-

tion. Inasmuch as the Lowell police had sent up a warrant for a more serious complaint, bigamy, the case was placed on file and he was turned over to the Lawrence police. It is alleged that Richards was, in-ried a number of years ago but tired of his wife soon after the marriage and left her. Subsequently he met one Clara Dion and it is alleged that he was married to her and the pair had been living in Baldwin street, this city.

When Richards' first wife, who was in Manchester, heard of the whereabouts of her husband, she notified the police and the pair were arrested.

When arraigned in court, about a week ago the case was continued in order that the Lawrence police could serve a warrant. Richards secured bail and a few days afterwards Supt. Welch received a letter supposed to be sent by Richards which stated that he was ashamed to appear in court and intended to commit suicide by drowning himself in the Merrimack river and in about nine days his body would be found in the river between Lowell and Lawrence.

The story did not throw the police off the track, however, and Saturday

Richards was arrested in Manchester and brought back to this city.

QUARTERLY MEETING Of District Council, No 5, Union St. Jean Baptiste

The quarterly convention of District Council No. 5, Union St. Jean Baptiste, was held in Amesbury yesterday under the auspices of St. Jean Baptiste council of the latter place. Jules Roy, president, presided. The affair consisted of a high mass at the Sacred Heart church followed by a dinner and a meeting in the afternoon in the spacious quarters of the Ameybury council in School street.

There were delegates from Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Amesbury, Newburyport, Forge Village, Salem, Lynn, Danvers and Ipswich. Present at the meeting also were Henri T. LeDoux, Esq., of Nashua, president general of the Union and Rev. J. B. Labossiere, pastor of the Sacred Heart church. The delegates arrived in Amesbury at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and they were escorted to the beautiful building in School street known as St. Jean Baptiste building and owned by the council of that name. After a social hour the party proceeded to the church where at 10:30 a high mass was celebrated by Rev. J. B. Labossiere. The choir under the direction of Mr. A. Delamare-Pecheron, who is also organist, rendered the Gregorian mass of the second tone, the solos being sustained by Messrs. J. Plante of Amesbury, L. Daoust of Haverhill, Alvin Dallaire of Amesbury and Wilbur J. St. Charles and E. J. Larochelle of Lowell. At the offertory Miss Wilhelmine Boudreau sang in a very charming manner Mattfield's "Ave Marie."

Rev. Fr. Labossiere delivered a forceful sermon on the gospel of the day, referring to fraternal organizations. Immediately after the mass the delegates repaired to the home of Mr. Jules Roy where a dainty dinner was served at the close of which a meeting was held in St. Jean Baptiste hall. The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by President Louis A. Thibault of Newburyport and considerable business was transacted. The main topic of discussion was the question of removing the headquarters of the union from Woonsocket, R. I., to Boston. A large number of delegates expressed their opinion on the matter and finally a unanimous vote was taken to recommend the removal of headquarters to Boston, the said question to be voted upon at the next convention of the union which will be held in Fall River in September. The reason given for recommending this action is that Boston is more business centre than Woonsocket.

A letter from Cardinal O'Connell announcing that His Eminence had appointed to look into the possibilities of having such events: Mr. Bergeron, Lynn, chairman; Andre Brochu, St. Ameybury; Pierre A. Brousseau, Lowell; Henri Ragot, Lawrence; Mr. Gagnon, Salem; Mr. Canon, South Lawrence; and President L. A. Thibault, ex-officio.

The meeting was brought to a close with a vote of thanks to St. Jean Baptiste council for its cordial reception. There was a large delegation from Lowell present at the convention.

COLD STORAGE FOR FURS.

Furs stored in the home, however carefully, come out flat and crushed in the fall. Preservatives frequently fade and often fail to keep out moths. They cannot be thoroughly cleaned by the owner and the risk from fire and thieves must also be considered. The only safe place in summer is in dry, cold storage and under the care of competent furriers.

Insist on Having Your Furs Put in Cold Storage and Then They Are Absolutely Safe.

All furs stored are insured 100 cents on the dollar against fire, burglary and theft and against damage by moths. We have on exhibit in one of the Merrimack street windows, two pictures of our cold storage vault where your furs will be absolutely safe from moths, fire or thieves.

LOUIS A. THIBAUT, Pres. Dist. Council, No. 5.

quinted Rev. J. B. Labossiere chaplain of the district council was received with tremendous applause. Fr. Labossiere who was present at the meeting was called upon for a few remarks.

At the request of Champlain council of South Lawrence, it was unanimously voted to hold the next convention at the latter place on the second Sunday in July. The following were appointed as a press committee to inform the French and English press of the details of the council: Edith Garneau, Lawrence; Joseph P. Montminy, Lowell; Andre Brochu, Jr., Amesbury; Thomas Bois, Salem.

A very important item brought before the meeting was the question of holding an annual outing on a large scale, this being suggested by Mr. Bergeron of Lynn. His idea was to have an annual outing each year if possible on July 4 in order to group together the several thousand members of the union and their families. This proposition was well received by the convention and immediately a committee composed of the following was appointed:

EASTER PROGRAMS

Were Repeated in the Catholic Churches Yesterday

In all the Catholic churches yesterday the Easter musical programs were repeated by the church choirs. Large congregations were present and the programs were given in an excellent manner.

At St. Margaret's church yesterday the high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Reardon. Fr. Reardon also gave the sermon. He said that the parish lines that were recently announced, whereby the parish annexed a part of St. Peter's parish have been changed back to the original lines.

The high mass at 10.30 was celebrated by Rev. James T. McDermott, O. M. I. The sermon was preached by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., who took as his subject "Peace Be With You." The musical program was given in a most excellent manner.

Tonight the members of both choirs will be given a banquet by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I.

ing such as to call forth words of praise from the pastor and curates of the church. In spite of the unfavorable weather the downpour just coming as the men were on their way to mass, the attendance was not affected in the least and the great broad aisle in the main church was filled as well as sections of the side aisles. Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, Ph. D., pastor, was the celebrant of the mass and the Holy Name choir, under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered a special program. Spots were taken by Mr. Donnelly, David A. Mahoney and Frank J. Kane. Rev. Dr. Keleher read the announcements and spoke briefly of the gratulation to the members of the society for such a splendid showing. He hoped that the members would be loyal to the principles of the society, that they would profit from its periodical communions. He was sure that God would bless them and their families for such a grand example and hoped they would attend many more quarterly communions. Rev. John F. Burns and Rev. W. George Mullin assisted in giving communion. At the close of mass the choir and congregation sang the hymn of praise. After mass the members repaired to Lincoln hall where a bounteous repast was served by Mrs. Katherine McQuade and a corps of young ladies of the parish and they were assisted by a host of committee members of the society under the leadership of Mrs. James W. Cook and Vice President John J. Watson. Following breakfast, chairs

DAMAGE IS $100,000

A Disastrous Fire in Augusta, Me.

AUGUSTA, Me., April 13.—Damage estimated at $100,000 was caused by a fire which raged for more than four hours early today and which for a time threatened to wipe out considerable of the business section of this city. Starting from an unknown cause in the basement of a fruit store in the Bowdoin block on Water street the fire spread rapidly to other wooden buildings on that thoroughfare. Hard work by the firemen and the fact that brick buildings were located on either side of the wooden blocks kept the flames from spreading beyond the section running between numbers 131-151.

The old city hotel building and the Theatre Comique were destroyed and a tenement house was also wiped out. The losers included Stand and Stearns, bakers; Wilfrid Perry, restaurant; Mrs. Margaret Merrill, theater and bowling alley; Nathan Richmond, dry goods store; Lewis Levine, fruit store; C. E. Daggett, fish market; C. B. Murphy, drug store.

Considerable of the property burned was owned by Charles B. Bowman of Los Angeles, Cal. Occupants of stores and tenements in the burned buildings lost goods worth $65,000 and the loss on the damaged buildings reached $35,000. About 50 per cent. of the loss is covered by insurance.

When the fire started about 25 persons were asleep in the old City hotel building, and they were obliged to flee into the streets, many of them being unable to secure their clothing and effects. The flames reached the building soon after they made their escape and their return to save property was made impossible. Several firemen had a narrow escape from injury when a wall on the rear end of one of the buildings fell. The men were wedged in between the river and the burning buildings and were forced to make a hasty run out of the danger zone to avoid being struck by the falling wall.

A few firemen were overcome by smoke which filled the whole business section.

ANNIVERSARY REQUIEM MASS

An anniversary high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Patrick's church on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock for the repose of the soul of the late Patrick Cavanaugh.

Winter is coming. Now is the time to think of decorating and painting the interior of your home, making it bright and cheerful during the long dreary months when you and your family are going to spend most of your time indoors.

By doing your interior painting and varnishing in the fall you enjoy the benefits of clean fresh floors and woodwork that you lose in the summer when you are out of doors.

A few dollars expended for

Lowell Brothers

are more than repaid not only in appearance and attractiveness but in the ease with which a well painted surface can be kept bright and clean.

Lowell Brothers Stains, Floor Paints, Varnishes, etc., always give the best results. They are elastic, flow smoothly and evenly and dry with a hard, long wearing surface.

It doesn't pay to save a few cents on the gallon and put on inferior varnish, paint or stain that will look cheap when new and crack, check and mar before it's old.

We have a Lowell Brothers Paint and Varnish for every purpose and will be pleased to help you out with suggestions for your fall decorating.

SOME GREAT BATTING

SCENE AT SPALDING PARK. (Manager Gray is in the center.)

Was Done by Lowell Team in Saturday's Game

The Lowell baseball team played the St. Anselm's college team at Spalding park Saturday and won by 24 to 3. It was the first game of the season and the Lowell players showed up in great style. At the opening of the game Manager Gray sent in all of his regulars, but as the game went on he made changes and gave all of the recruits a chance. The Lowell players showed that they are the same batters of old and there sent the ball to all corners of the lot.

There was a good attendance on hand considering the chilly weather and all are satisfied that Lowell will be well represented this year. While all of the "vets" showed up well the work of Ferrin in the field and Burke behind the bat was the feature of the showing of the new men. The real hitting hit was Jimmy Magee, who got three hits in as many times at bat. Billy Merritt as decision maker gave general satisfaction.

First Inning

Whalen walked. Harris sacrificed. Whalen going to second. McCarthy singled between center and right. Whalen scored. King foul. Fied to Boutles. Donnelly grounded to Cooney who threw to Shaw getting King at second.

For Lowell, White, the Lowell boy, was the first batter and he received a great hand. He responded by walking to first on four wide ones. White stole second. Cooney walked. "Pop" Rising singled to left field, scoring White and advancing Cooney. Magee hit to left and the ball dropped between the third baseman and left fielder and Magee got to second, while Cooney scored and Rising went to third. Wright flied to left and Rising scored. The put out and Magee went to third. Boutles struck out. Shaw was hit by a pitched ball and was thrown out by Fish when he tried to steal second.

Score: St. Anselm's 1, Lowell 2.

Second Inning

Fish hit to Boutles and was thrown out. Leonard singled by second. Cooney hit to Cooney, who threw to Shaw getting Leonard at second. Holcomb hit to White, who dropped the ball. He threw to Boutles, who threw to Shaw and the ball was returned to Wright, who tagged the winner.

For Lowell Burke singled to center. Bates struck out. White hit to center. McCarthy, who fouled and he was safe and Burke went to second. Cooney struck out. Rising hit to King, who dropped the ball and Burke and White scored. Rising taking second. Magee singled to right, scoring Rising and going to second on the throw in. Wright singled over second and Magee scored. Boutles flied out to King.

Score: St. Anselm's 1, Lowell 7.

Third Inning

Whalen walked out. Harris flied out. Shaw, McCarthy flied to Rising. Whalen stole second. Burke's throw being low. King struck out.

For Lowell Shaw struck out. Burke also struck out. Bates closed the inning by striking out.

Score: St. Anselm's 1, Lowell 7.

Fourth Inning

Donnelly flied out to Boutles. Fish hit to center for two bases. Leonard hit to Bates and died at first. Cooney hit to Bates and was third out.

For Lowell: White walked and stole second. Cooney struck out. Rising flied to left scoring White. Rising stole second and scored on Magee's single to center field.

Wright hit to center field for two bases scoring Magee. Boutles singled, scoring Wright. Shaw sacrificed, sending Boutles to second. Burke was hit by a pitched ball and was sent to first. Bates hit to Leonard, who dropped the

SCENE AT BROOKLYN BALL PARK, WHERE DISORDER MARRED OPENING OF THE SEASON

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

BROOKLYN, April 15.—Although Charley Ebbets, president of Brooklyn baseball club, has declared that the disorderly scenes which marred the baseball opening at Washington Park on April 11 were not due to any just for gold on his part, he is still being panned by the fans and critics for admitting some 9000 more persons than his enclosure would comfortably hold. The seating capacity of the stands is about 16,000 people, but about 25,000 entered the gates. The aisles were packed, and the field was so crowded that the players were not able to move around comfortably. The outfielders were just a few feet behind the infielders, and the backstops had some difficulty in doing their work. The newspaper men had great difficulty in covering the game. Mayor Gaynor, who threw the first ball, occupied a box for awhile, but after the first inning it was impossible for him to see the game. The police made room for his honor a few feet away from the home plate. It would be a good thing for the big leagues to govern the actions of the various clubs and prevent such scenes as accompanied the opening game in Brooklyn. Baseball is our most popular sport, but there is a limit to the patience of a fan. Upper picture shows close play at home plate—Catcher Phelps of Brooklyn touching Snodgrass of the Giants. Umpire Klein is in the background. Arrow shows Mayor Gaynor; lower one police keeping crowd back.

DIAMOND NOTES

The bids for the catering privileges at Spalding park will be received until Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. At that time all sealed bids must be on hand at the baseball headquarters of the Lowell team in the Hildreth building. All caterers are eligible and it is expected that many bids will be submitted.

Mr. and Mrs. Melton Wolfgang are relocating over the arrival of a beautiful baby girl. The stork visited the home of the star slab artist last week and was responsible for "papa's" delay in reporting to the team.

Eddie Berard, the mascot has grown several inches since last season. He is one of the happiest "men" on the team, owing to the fact that Wolfgang is coming back. The two were great chums last year and Eddie always received the benedictions of the spit ball artist in practice.

Several of the "rookies" in the Lowell squad look awfully good.

Matty Zieser, a Mexican, has arrived in Lowell and comes as a part of the deal with Milwaukee in which Fishary figured. Zieser is a pitcher, and Hugh Duffy, his former manager says that he has the goods.

This afternoon, the Lowell team will play with the Rosindale baseball club at Spalding park. The visiting aggregation is said to be one of the speediest of the semi-professional teams of New England. The lineup of the visitors will be: Abbe cf, Brennan 3b, Duest 2b, Morrison lf, Desmond rf, Martin or Gustafson ss, Scampton 1b, Garland or Morgan c, Burbank or Erlanson p.

A big crowd will go out to Spalding park, weather conditions permitting. Wednesday afternoon, when Providence, headed by Fred Lake, will come to town. Providence has a very strong team this year, but Manager Gray hopes to pass out a surprise on Wednesday.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Ponies have organized for the season of 1912 and expect to have a strong team and would like to get a game for Saturday, April 20, with any team in the city. Send all challenges to Pony club, 289 Lakeview avenue.

The Young Americans of Wigglesville would like to challenge any 13 or 14 year old team in Lowell for April 19. Send all challenges to Linwood Wilde, 14 Kensington street, City.

RIFLE TEAM SHOOT

Held at the Dracut Rifle Range

The members of the rifle teams of the four local companies of the militia held the first of the five men team shoots at the Dracut range Saturday afternoon and there was great interest in the work of the men. The contests were very exciting and the men showed that they didn't lose their eyes during the winter season.

Company K got away with the total, 278, while at the 600 yard range, the G men led with a total for that range of 57. Sergeant Tobin of M made the best individual score, getting 61 out of a possible 75. Company C kept some of their best shots in the background and came out in second place. Captain Walter R. Jeyes of G company, 6th, was range officer. Next Saturday Lieutenant Christian of Co. M will fill that position. The scores:

BETTERS SHOULD BACK CHAMPION UNTIL DEFEATED

IS the constant cry from the betting faction in the pugilistic game that the favorite is frequently overthrown justified by the facts?

The recent defeat of Abe Attell, the former featherweight champion of the world, by Johnny Kilbane, when Attell was held a 2 to 1 and 10 to 4 favorite, has brought up a revival of the question. Ask any man who attends fights his opinion and he will likely tell you that the percentage of favorites losing is greater than that of the so-called long shots. Unquestionably he is sincere in his belief, but he forgets many of the nights in which the favorite has won.

As a matter of fact, in boxing, as in any other game to which betting is attached, the general public bears the brunt of the losses of any heavy gambler. If a strong favorite is overthrown where the odds may be 10 to 2, as is frequently the case, there is a hurrah in the papers of the money that has been wagered and won or lost. The average man thinks of what he might have won, and that leaves an impression on his mind.

Now, it is possible with the ordinary run of fights the favorite may be frequently defeated, but where champions are concerned and the title is so the balance you will find that in most part the champion has given good account of himself.

Let's go over the history of some of the champions and their various matches and you can tell for yourself. When Corbett boxed John L. Sullivan in New Orleans Sullivan, then the champion, was rated at 10 to 3, and even held as good as 4 to 1. Champion Corbett when he boxed Charlie Mitchell and knocked him out was 10 to 3 over the Englishman. A little later, at the time James J. was beaten by Robert Fitzsimmons, the Californian was quoted at 10 to 5, and once more the short ender came home.

Fitzsimmons, who succeeded Corbett as the world's titleholder, was picked to win from Jeffries when James of Southern California was sent into the ring, and the few men who fancied Jeffries profited in consequence, as the price was 2 to 1.

Jeffries, on assuming the title became the favorite, as is the custom with a champion, and good prices were quoted in many matches in which he was the winner. After beating Fitz Jeff was rated at 2 to 1 over Sharkey and 3 to 1 over Corbett. When Rabin was sent against him the Akron giant was in the short end of 10 to 4 betting. In his second fight with Fitzsimmons Jeffries was a 10 to 4 favorite, and the same price prevailed in the second match with Corbett. Munroe was so little thought of that he was at 4 to 1, with little of the "one" end in sight.

Jeff Favorite Once Too Often.

After being acclaimed champion Jeffries was a betting favorite up to the time of his meeting with Jack Johnson. But, here, you must remember Johnson was the legitimate champion, and as such was 10 to 6 over the white man.

Joe Gans when he fought Frank Erne for the lightweight title, then held by the latter, was quoted at even money—one of the few instances when the champion was not a strong public choice. After that in most of his fights the Baltimore lightweight was a prohibitive favorite. The nearest to an even price was when 10 to 6 was laid that he would beat Battling Nelson in Goldfield. Probably the reason for such a liberal price was the conditions that Billy Nolan as manager of Nelson imposed—conditions that many fight fans did not believe the colored boy could successfully meet. Later, when Joe boxed Nelson in Colma, where he lost his title, 10 to 3 money that the Hesperian had would lose went begging at the ringside.

As an illustration of an outside price, Terry McGovern was 5 to 1 to beat Young Corbett in their Hartford match, which was won by Corbett in a round.

Nelson, who followed in the footsteps of Gans, was a favorite up to and after his Wolgast match. The latter figured 10 to 4 over Dick Hyland and was quoted at 2 to 1 over Hyland, who disappointed him of the lightweight title.

Wolgast has also been a good stand favorite. Having whipped Nelson, he was quoted at 10 to 4 against Lou Carve and 10 to 3 against George Menzies. The same 10 to 4 price was in existence for Frankie Burns and 10 to 6 for Owen Moran.

Stanley Ketchel was another example that proved the rule rather than the exception. After he had knocked out Joe Thomas at Colma, Cal., the bettors rallied to his standard. They sent in the coin at 2 to 1 for the next bout with Thomas, 10 to 4 against Mike ("Twin") Sullivan and 10 to 4 against Brother Jack. In the last Thomas bout Jim was a short ender, 10 to 4, and Papke was 10 to 4 short end in Los Angeles when he stopped Ketchel. Later in the return match in San Francisco Papke was a 10 to 7 favorite, but failed to make good, and on their last bout at Colma Ketchel was favorite, 10 to 4.

What does it prove? Nothing perhaps, but if one big bettor's advice is to be followed it shows that it's good policy to follow a champion.

"Advice is hard to give for betting on fights," said a man who has made that a business. "I follow but one rule. It is to back the champion until he is beaten. Ordinarily you will find that after a boxer wins the title he is good for several fights and in many instances for quite a number of them. But on him then and stay with him, or course he must lose sooner or later, but in the long run if you want to bet on fights you will have profited by this system."

Why Connie Mack

Favors Collegians

Maybe the reason Connie Mack is partial to collegians is because twice they have won the world's title for him. Columbia is responsible for Eddie Collins. Jack Coombs was unearthed at Colby. Bender played with Carleton. Hank was Gettysburg's colors. Harry was a Holy Cross man, and Sam Clark, Cal., was Kansas' alma mater.

Players Should Be Taught How to Slide to Bases

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION.

By TOMMY CLARK.

WHY is it that so little attention is given to base sliding and base running during the spring training season? But few big league managers drill their men in this side of the game. A little practice each year and serious attention paid to it would mean an abundance of stolen bases, and more stolen bases would mean more runs, more games won and better baseball.

One trouble with the training camp today is that not enough attention is paid to sliding. The players have it on the training program, and they fix up the sand pile and do little things with as little effort as possible and mope around and scatter as soon as they can. They do that each training season. Players look on that part of the work with malice and hatred. It would please them to have all reference to sliding eliminated.

But sliding should be just as important as hitting practice. At least half an hour each day should be devoted to sliding practice. Nearly any one can slide feet or head foremost, but how many can throw themselves to the right or left, can twist themselves or catch themselves in a manner to evade the infielder clutching the ball? You would be surprised to discover the scarcity of them by watching their work in just one of these practices.

Now, sliding in baseball—that is, the real art of sliding—is just about as "deep" a thing as trapeze work in a circus. There is a whole lot to the feat, "and 'tain't everybody what kin do it."

1.—A perfect hook slide. 2.—Arthur Shafer of the New York Giants practicing in the sliding pit. 3.—A bad slide—started too far away from the bag. 4.—Use of the leg in blocking a base runner. 5.—A poor method—base runner comes into the bag sitting up.

The few who can slide are quickly discovered in the practice during the springtime—they are generally known to exist beforehand—and rarely does the list fall to stop with the limited number. In other words, few players learn the finer points of the art of sliding.

Hugh Jennings of Detroit and Johnny

McGraw of New York are great believers in teaching men how to slide to the bases. On the Tiger team there are two men—Bush and Cobb—who are well versed in the finer points of sliding.

For two years Jennings has tried to produce a few more of their type out of the ranks of his recruits and veterans. The veterans are too old to learn, while the recruits either lose heart or lack ambition, for it requires much nerve and vast energy to become acquainted with the "inside dope" on sliding.

Cobb and Bush have both served as examples for young and those not so young. Little has ever come of it.

Bush became expert in evasive sliding by continued practice and the spending of energy and effort. So did Cobb. When Bush started out he was an awkward base runner and inexperienced in sliding. He was further more of the sort the average man points to and remarks that "he'll never learn." Bush learned. "Twas a tough job, but Bush made that grade. Johnny McGraw is another manager who believes in having youngsters practice base sliding. During the spring training McGraw had his men out nearly every afternoon teaching them the different slides.

He did the same thing last spring. The result was that the Giants were the best base running team in the National league last season. And, accidentally, it may be said, had much to do with the Giants in capturing the pennant in 1911. McGraw has six of the leading base runners in the league on his club. Pittsburgh is another good base running club, but the majority of teams have given little time to this branch of the game.

Next perhaps in importance is the Lake Erie circuit, which takes in Oil City, Wilkesbarre, Hanover, Alleentown and Lancaster.

Then comes the Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland circuit. This circuit is made up of half mile tracks, and last year some of the fastest two lap ring performances known to the harness horse world were brought off there.

These are but a handful of the whole lot of trotting organizations that will be in operation. There are about 800 fair associations in the country, and fast harness horse exhibitions are the drawing features.

PITCHER LIVELY'S DEAR ADVENTURE WITH A CHAIR

JACK LIVELY has gone from the Detroit Tigers, but the traditions of his glory will linger long. In his year of service with the jungle band Jack probably furnished as much fun and was the butt of as many amusing stories as any one who ever wore Detroit livery. Here is a new one on the south-erner, told by that well known story teller, Harry Tuttle:

"One day while the club was stopping in Philadelphia," says Harry, "Lively happened to break a little piece off one of the chairs in his room. The damage was slight and probably could have been repaired for 60 cents. Instead of reporting the breakage to the office and having the chair fixed, however, Lively got scared and made up his mind to destroy all evidences of the accident.

"Accordingly he smashed the chair into thirty-two small pieces by jumping on it and breaking the fragments over his knee. This done, he hid the traces of his crime in a small closet under the washstand, hoping that the mangled body of the chair would not be found until the Tigers left town.

"It so happened that the hotel was doing some general housecleaning at that time, and Jack's foul deed was discovered the next morning by the chambermaid, who reported to the housekeeper. The result was that Lively found himself confronted with a bill for $15 for one chair, and the club secretary had to pay it, not forgetting to deduct the amount from Lively's next check.

"That little adventure cost Mr. Lively just $17.50 more than it ought to have cost, to say nothing of the trouble and time he spent in reducing the chair to fragments."

Six Millions In Harness Purses to Be Distributed During the Present Year

CONSERVATIVE estimates place the aggregate amount of money to be distributed among trotting and pacing horse owners this year at more than $6,000,000. This covers stakes and open purses. There will be more than a thousand meetings, covering territory from Maine to California, and from Florida to the Canadian line.

Readville, Hartford, Lexington and other points where the trotter and pacer are in favor have already claimed dates and stated the amount of purses. These three meetings alone will give owners about $120,000. Then there are Detroit, Buffalo, Syracuse, Poughkeepsie, Kalamazoo, North Randall, Columbus and one or two other prospective grand circuit stands.

Hardly less important is the great western circuit. This route includes Springfield, Peoria, Pekin and Aurora, Ill.; Dubuque, Des Moines and Davenport, Iowa; Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Fort Wayne and Evansville, Ind., and other cities and towns in the middle west.

Next perhaps in importance is the Lake Erie circuit, which takes in Oil City, Wilkesbarre, Hanover, Alleentown and Lancaster.

Then comes the Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland circuit. This circuit is made up of half mile tracks, and last year some of the fastest two lap ring performances known to the harness horse world were brought off there.

These are but a handful of the whole lot of trotting organizations that will be in operation. There are about 800 fair associations in the country, and fast harness horse exhibitions are the drawing features.

AMERICA'S BEST SWIMMERS FOR THE OLYMPIAD

ATHLETIC interest centers these days in the fast approaching Olympic games of 1912, and with the great meet less than three months away it is gratifying to note that besides a most likely vic-balanced team of watermen, capable of holding their own in every event on the program, and both local and foreign experts are conceding that the sterling aggregation has an excellent chance to score more points than any other team at the meet.

From such a galaxy of stars as J. H. Reilly, Bud Goodwin and Nicholas Norich of the New York A. C.; Richard Frizell, C. L. A.; Eben and Frank Cross of Princeton, J. Stoddard, Philadelphia S. C. and Perry McGillicuddy and Harry Hehner, Illinois A. C., a foursome should be picked that will average around 2 minutes 30 seconds for 220 yards (the distance each man will have to swim is 218.6 yards), and on past performances no other team can show such speed. It may be mentioned incidentally that McGillicuddy is credited with having recently covered the furlong in 2 minutes 25 seconds in an eighty foot pool, which makes him a close rival to Davies.

The latter will not start in the 100 meter race, but McGillicuddy, Frizell and Hehner, who traveled a century within six inches of him last March, all three finishing under fifty-seven seconds, should be able to land this title, and there is every prospect that Duke Kahanamoku, the Honolulu native, whose 100 yards straightaway record of 65 and 2-5 seconds has been accepted by the officials of the Amateur Athletic Club union, will also strengthen Uncle Sam's sprinting forces. A purse has been raised in Hawaii to send him to Sweden, and of course he will be entered from the United States. Americans who have seen Kahanamoku swim express the belief that he is as fast a short distance swimmer as ever lived.

For the 400 and 1,500 meter swims the feeling is general that we have no men likely to figure in the awards, which is rather a pessimistic attitude to take when it is considered that both Reilly and Goodwin did one mile last summer in 25 minutes 40 seconds in spite of a cross tide that carried them in a circle and certainly added a half minute to their time. Looking over the foreign open water performances of 1911, the conviction is gained that a very slight improvement will give this pair a fighting chance—if not first, at least second or third, and every point counts.

Hehner is Ahead.

In back stroke swimming honors seem to be at the mercy of Harry Hehner, whose 100 yard mark is nearly four seconds faster than that of the best

Europeans. Barring accidents, he should score an easy victory. There are other good candidates in Gossling, Gossling and Barnes, though it is a question whether the funds will be sufficient to send more than one man for this event.

Michael McDermott will be our reliance in the breast stroke 200 meter so far been shown to take his measure. Whether he can maintain his speed over the longer (100 meters) course is uncertain.

It is not believed that the authorities will find it possible to add more than two fancy divers to the team, but as George Gaidzik and Arthur McAlhnan are adept both in diving from the ten meter tower and from the three meter springboard we will have two entries in each event if this pair is chosen, as seems probable. They will have strong opposition from Sweden and Germany, and the style obtaining in the Olympic contests may militate against them. They, however, are doing remarkable work, and on merit they should land on top of the heap.

As will be seen, the prospects are that the United States will make a strong bid for the first six of the nine events on the program, and there is a chance to score a second or third in the other three. Considering, then, that the Australians are not expected to send a full team to Stockholm, and that England and Germany, the only other formidable countries, will have weak spots in their squads, the confidence appears warranted that this country will have a particularly good chance to lift this point trophy.

Many Races Play Baseball

"BASEBALL," the great "American" game—how often one sees "the national pastime" in the public prints. But, friends, there isn't such a thing," says Harry Nelly, who travels with the St. Louis Cardinals. "The Polish, the Hun, the Greek and the Italian have learned their way into the sport, and say nothing of the 'Castilian gentleman,' meaning the Cuban, a stock of Indians and a Japanese."

"I remember one game we played against Chicago," says Joe Kultima, who can make base hits and two cows grow where there was only a bale of hay. "Talk about the national sport, I was at bat, Billy Evans was umpiring behind the plate, Block was catching, Benz was pitching, Collins played second base, and Ping Bodie was in center field."

Way to Judge a Pitcher

Is to Watch Him Pitch

"THE only way to tell anything about a pitcher is to see him pitch," said Jim McGuire, the Cleveland scout, in response to a question as to what he thought of some of the youngsters of the Detroit Tiger squad at Monroe, La., recently. "These boys have all the notions of pitchers so far as any one can see from the practice stunts, but until they have been under fire I decline to pass final judgment on them."

"To my mind the ideal athlete is the one who is best when the necessity for being strong is greatest. It's that old fighting spirit that counts. There are lots of fellows who are wonders in practice, no matter what line of sport they may be engaged in. But but boxers seldom are fighters, and many fine warm-up pitchers fall down terribly when they come to face the music in a regular game."

"Many a time I have warmed up men who had everything that I ever have seen in a pitcher display. Speed, curves, control and everything else would be theirs, and I would feel confident that they would be able to win that day if we got them a couple of runs. Then these fellows would go out to the center of the diamond and show me about half of what they had displayed in warm-up practice."

"It isn't always a lack of gameness that accounts for a pitcher's failure to do as well in a game as in practice. Some of the men are so anxious to win that they work themselves into a stew. There are plenty of fellows who are game, yet can't do their best when they want to. It seems to be a sort of a baseball instinct that enables the great pitcher to rise to the emergency. He has that fighting spirit, but at the same time keeps his head cool."

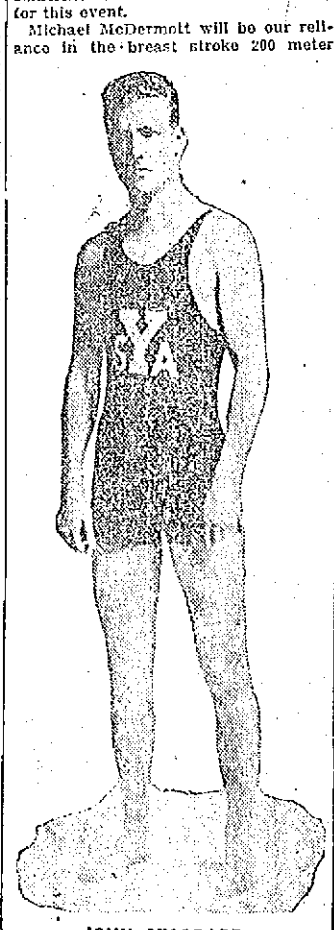

"The youngsters of the Detroit squad might pitch great ball when handing them up to the batters in practice with nothing depending on the outcome of the sluggers' efforts and yet fall down against even a mediocre club in a regular game. I have seen it repeatedly happen that a twirler would make the batsmen of a strong American league club look bad when he was pitching to them in practice and then let some class D or college nine hammer him all over the place."

Rucker is a southpaw that has "everything." He does not rely on a slow ball, fast one, the curve or his knuckle, but mixes them all, and this carries him the limit usually with success. He does not use the splitter. He does not think it is any too good for a twirler's arm.

It is practically the unanimous opinion of all baseball experts that Rucker is the best southpaw in the National league and a runner-up for first in all baseballdom.

BUD GOODWIN.

JOHN STODDARD.

try in track and field events Americans may look forward to a probable victory in aquatic sports.

For the first time in history this country will send abroad a strong, well swim, and there is no doubt that he will be placed among the point winners. Without being pressed he has broken more than one world's record, and it will take a better man than has in a line. Can you beat it?"

Remonstrants to be Heard

Thursday

The hearing of remonstrants to the granting of liquor licenses at certain premises which was to have been held before the license commission tomorrow night has been postponed until Thursday night owing to the inability of one of the commissioners to be present.

Objection has been filed against the granting of a license to L. P. Turcotte & Co., at 719 Moody street and also to Moran & Co., at the corner of Race and Moody streets.

The Federation of Churches has also remonstrated against the commission granting a license to all those people who violated the conditions of their licenses during the year.

The license commissioners have finished the examination of premises where license were applied for with the exception of the brewery, none of the officials having been at that place when the board called Saturday.

"TITANIC" IS SINKING

GREAT "TITANIC"

Would Reach From Central to Shattuck St.

OR FROM MERRIMACK TO HURD STREET

This Will Give Lowell People an Idea of the Great Length of This Vessel

In order to appreciate the great length of the "Titanic," the monster White Star liner which struck an iceberg off the New Foundland coast last night, one must compare the length of the great steamer with a distance with which one is familiar. The steamer is 852 feet, 6 inches in length, and that distance in Merrimack street would carry one from Central street to Shattuck street or from Merrimack street up Central street to the line of Hurd street. With these distances we are familiar and a steamer extending from Central street to Shattuck street in Merrimack street or from Merrimack street to Hurd street in Central street is some steamer and the iceberg that made her sit up and take notice must have been some berg.

150 RIFLES

SENT TO UNITED STATES CITIZENS IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, April 15.—In response to an appeal from the American consul at Guadalajara, Mexico, President Taft has authorized the exportation of 150 rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition for arming the citizens of the United States in that district.

THE TAXES

It is noticeable and equally interesting to observe how much some people make of TAXES. We won't just now enter on discussion as to the justice or lack of justice under prevailing practice, but call attention to the fact that many who show such activity prior to April 1st could do much toward providing the wherewithal to meet their final tax assessments, if they showed the same activity and thoughtfulness in making their bank deposits work for them throughout the year. Make the Cash on hand, the Cash waiting investment, the Cash waiting any use, earn interest while idle. Five Hundred Dollar balances earn interest at Mid-dex Trust Co. at rate of two per cent. Interest commences when deposit is made. Money is always subject to check. The interest earned will provide many things, and as we started to say, it will help pay the taxes.

SEVERAL CLEVER LADIES

The other day several ladies asked, "Isn't this a fine time to wire for electric lights?"

We told them, "Yes, Spring is the best time."

They talked it over; each one had her house wired and all cleaned house by vacuum.

Report That Big Steamship May Have To be Beached

STEAMSHIP IS SINKING

HALIFAX, N. S., April 15.—The Canadian government marine agency here at 4.15 p. m. received a wireless despatch that the Titanic is sinking. The message came via the cable ship Minia, off Cape Race. It said that the steamers towing the Titanic were endeavoring to get her into shoal water near Cape Race for the purpose of beaching her.

Wireless despatches up to noon today showed that the passengers on the monster White Star liner Titanic, which struck an iceberg off the New Foundland coast last night, were being transferred aboard the steamer Carpathia, a Cunarder which left New York April 13th for Naples.

Already 20 boatloads of the Titanic's passengers have been transferred aboard the Carpathia and allowing 40 to 60 people as the capacity of each lifeboat some 800 or 1200 people have already been transferred from the damaged liner to the Carpathia. Another liner, the Parisian, of the Allan company, which sailed from Glasgow for Halifax on April 6th is already close at hand and assisting in the work of rescue. The Baltic and Virginian are also near the scene and the Olympic, the sister ship of the Titanic, is apparently near at hand, as the wireless information concerning the transfer comes from Captain Haddock of the Olympic.

The latest reports indicate that the transfer of passengers is being carried on successfully and safely. The sea is smooth and the weather calm. It is probable that all of the passengers of the Titanic are safe.

While badly damaged the Titanic is still afloat and is reported to be making her way toward Halifax under her own steam.

The accident occurred at 10.25 last night at a point about 400 miles south of Cape Race, N. F., and about 1100 miles east of New York.

The Titanic is the largest steamer ever built. She is 852 feet long and has 46,328 tons displacement. She was launched last May and this was her maiden trip.

Among the passengers aboard are Col. and Mrs. J. J. Astor, Alfred Vanderbilt, Major Butt, military aide to President Taft, F. D. Millet, the artist, and William T. Stead, the English writer. The liner carries 1400 passengers and a crew of 800.

STRIKERS TO ACCEPT POLICE SEEK DORR

Many of Them Vote to Return to In Connection With Murder of George E. Marsh

Work Monday

Although the sentiment of the different nationalities points to an acceptance of the increase offered by the mill officials, the strike is not as yet settled, and the members of the I. W. W. still do picket duty. Delegates representing the different nationalities called upon the agents of their respective mills this morning with a letter asking for certain concessions besides the 10 per cent. increase and according to reports three of the agents were seen and they promised to grant the demands as presented by the strike committee. Private meetings of the various nationalities will be held within the next two days and a vote will be taken as to whether or not the operatives are willing to accept the agents' terms. Later the delegates will report to the strike committee and a final vote will be taken. The delegates expressed their opinion at the meeting which was held this morning and with the exception of a couple, all are in favor of accepting the increase and return to work. The loomfixers and the mule spinners held meetings this morning and voted to accept the mill officials' offer and return to work on Monday, and besides they voted to grant permission to all those who would be asked to go to work this week to do so, and consequently a large number of loomfixers resumed work in the various mills this morning in order to get the looms in shape for Monday. The parade held this morning in connection with picketing was by far the largest ever held. It is calculated that over 4000 people were in line. There was much cheering but no trouble. Continued to page eight.

LYNN, April 15.—Chief of Police Burckes announced that the man for whom the Lynn inspectors are searching in Maine and New York state and whom they wish to question in regard to the murder of George E. Marsh, the wealthy soap manufacturer is E. W. Dorr of Stockton, Cal. The first information that Dorr was in the east and had been seen recently with Marsh, Chief Burckes said, from Chief of Police Dray of Stockton, who on the day after the murder telegraphed the Lynn police asking if a "low-sized man" had been seen recently with Marsh. The inquiry which followed led to the discovery at Marsh's home of a letter written to him by another George Marsh, supposed to be a nephew of the murdered man. In this letter the police say the writer referred to Dorr and advised Marsh not to endorse any notes for Dorr. Chief Burckes said that he had learned that Dorr left Stockton on March 11 and arrived on March 24 in Boston, where he registered at a hotel as Willis A. Dow. Later he came to Lynn and lived for a time at an apartment house. He was seen in Boston on the day Marsh was murdered. The chief describes Dorr as 35 years old, five feet, seven inches tall, dark but inclined to sandy complexion, with a

The police have learned the number of the automobile in which they believe Marsh's body was taken to the place where it was found and are trying to trace its ownership.

Chief of Police Burckes received word shortly after noon from Inspector Wilson Thorne of the Lynn police that Thorne had found the automobile in Boston. The car had been abandoned near Stanhope street with the steering gear somewhat disabled and had been taken to a nearby garage. In the bottom of the automobile, Inspector Thorne telephoned the chief, was 22 calibre automatic rifle. The inspector arranged to have the car towed to Lynn and took possession of the rifle.

HOME RULE BILL

Was Ridiculed by Ex-Premier Balfour

LONDON, April 15.—Ex-Premier Balfour resumed the debate in the house of commons this afternoon on the "Government of Ireland" bill which was introduced in parliament April 11 by Premier Asquith.

Mr. Balfour ridiculed the government measure for Irish home rule, describing it as "an unsymmetrical and botched federal scheme utterly unworthy of British statesmanship."

"Was this lorded scheme," the Opposition speaker said, "imitating the architect of the great federal system beyond the seas?"

The alleged supremacy of the Imperial parliament, Mr. Balfour declared, was about equivalent to the ancient claims of British sovereigns to be king of France.

Mr. Balfour said that he did not believe that any sane English or Scottish member would support the insane customs proposals which divide the suggested federal system by customs barriers. If Ireland, he said, could use the customs to differentiate against foreign nations the government would find itself involved in appalling difficulties concerning the most favored nation clause.

Mr. Balfour declared that while other nations including the United States and Germany and the British colonies felt that if they were to hold their places in the world it must be by integration Great Britain was to undergo a process of disintegration through the proposed "lopsided federation."

BURNED TO DEATH

LAWRENCE, April 15.—While attempting to pour oil from a picher into a lighted water heater in the bathroom of her home, Mrs. Nettie S. Colby, widow of George M. Colby, was burned to death at 6.30 last night before aid could reach her. She was alone in the house.

The fire had quickly spread to the window curtains and had been seen by John J. Green and Ernest Flinch. The former sent in a fire alarm and the two then broke in a window and ran to the upper floor in an effort to save Mrs. Colby. They found her body in the bathroom on the third floor of the large dwelling, burned almost beyond recognition.

Word was sent to a daughter, Mrs. Ida Blackwell, who was attending evening service in the Free Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. E. C. McCole, dismissed his congregation when he learned of the fatality.

over and congratulated him on the manner in which the polling was done. "The police arrangements here," he said, "were better than we experienced in any part of the country. Everything was perfect and Mr. Roosevelt has asked me to congratulate you." "Thanks to Mr. Roosevelt and yourself," said Supt. Welch. "Our desire is to do everything in the best way possible and, as a general rule, that's the way we do it."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke from a platform on the easterly side of the station and he reached the platform through the depot archway. It was here that the perfect polling showed itself. His men beings warned like bees, but the way from the car to the platform was kept absolutely clear.

William N. Osgood of this city, who had accompanied the Roosevelt party through New Hampshire during the day, introduced the colonel as "the next president of the United States." In part, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Recently I saw that Mr. Butler Ames of your city was reported as saying that he would rather be defeated with Taft than elected with me. I don't often agree with Butler Ames in matters political, but I most heartily agree with him in this case. I would rather see him defeated with anybody than be elected with me."

"I want to congratulate the people of Massachusetts on their progressive action in voting for a direct primary for the presidential nomination, but I hope that your legislators will not stop at that. I would like to see you elect your senators by direct vote. When I ask for genuine popular rule, I ask that the people be given the same chance that the individual expects in his relations with the individual."

"We all make mistakes now and then, but when I make them I want to make them myself. I don't want someone else to make them for me. If I make them myself, I won't make them twice, while someone else may. In the long run, day in and day out, the American people will govern themselves better than anyone acting for them, as a 'representative' part."

"I stand for a more direct government by the people. Whenever you shirk a job, you will find another man ready to take it up and work it for his own interests. In politics, it is the same—if you waive your rights, and delegate your power to others, the masses will assume full control. That is why I have been asking for a presidential primary, and now, in this state, you have the opportunity of saying whether you are with me or with the politicians. I want to see Massachusetts continue in advance of the procession, as she has in the past; if you don't go forward, you are sure to go back."

"I cannot enter into a discussion of the campaign. I simply ask you to judge my words by my deeds. Among the many accusations which the interests have hurled at me (and is there anything of which I have not been accused) is that I am a 'dictator,' but did you ever hear of me dictating to the people? I know the American people are fit to govern themselves and can do it better than a 'representative' minority. I hope that the American people will take the trouble to do it. I base my belief in the future of America on my knowledge of the American people."

DR. NELSON DEAD

Forfeits His Life to Researches

BOSTON, April 15.—Dr. Louis Nelson, a young physician of Boston, who had been winning a name for himself by his researches in bacteriology, died yesterday at the Elliot hospital, Anderson road, as the result of his experiments.

Dr. Nelson for the past year has been an instructor at the Harvard Medical school and for six months had been making a study of the recently discovered "gas bacilli" which are believed to generate the gases in the human system.

While engaged in his laboratory experiments he became inoculated by these bacilli some eight weeks ago and had grown steadily worse. He was taken to the Elliot hospital and an operation was planned, but it was found the bacilli had produced intestinal inflammation too severe to permit of this attempt to save his life.

GREAT REVOLUTION

Stirring the Heart of All Mankind

SAYS REV. CLARENCE R. SKINNER OF GRACE UNIV. CHURCH

Revolution Indicated by Strikes—Rev. Sarah A. Dixon Says Whole Tendency of Present Day is to Come at the Truth

Rev. Clarence R. Skinner of the Grace Universalist church, spoke Sunday morning on "The Twentieth Century Revolution," and said that the strikes here and elsewhere are all simply phenomena of a great revolution that is stirring the heart of all mankind.

"Part of the great disturbance that we have today," he said, "is carried on under the influence of that old 18th century philosophy. The men who have great power believe in individual rights, in liberty, in equality, in democracy. On the other hand, there is coming in its turn, the demand of the laboring class for its equality, its rights in democracy. It is largely the protest of the 19th century against the philosophy of the 18th century against the philosophy of the 18th century, the philosophy of individualism, gone to seed, running itself out into anarchy."

"But we are under the grip of a new idea. It is an idea of a bloody conception. It is not going to be violent, but it is going to thrust itself before the minds of men suddenly. It is going to be accepted finally by all mankind. It is this: that no longer does the highest good of each individual produce the highest good of all, but rather, the highest good of all people, when attained, is going to produce the highest good of every individual. That is a revolution, nothing more and nothing less. It is an entire overturning of the basis of our modern life."

"When we say this we mean not the leveling down of life, but the leveling up. Not the abolition of wealth, but the abolition of the abnormality of wealth, and the making of wealth a common thing. Not the abolition of property to all mankind. Not in any way robbing every man of his individuality, but rather guaranteeing that all men shall be able to attain the right of individuality of life."

Seeking the Truth

At the Highland Methodist church Sunday morning, Rev. Sarah A. Dixon, Ph. D., spoke on "Truth."

"The whole tendency of the present day," she said, "is to come at the truth. In politics, religion and social life we want the truth. Those who are unwilling to try for it are unworthy to be leaders. In fact they are not leaders whatever their position. The present temper of our day and nation is to reach down to the facts. They care not how far down they go if they only strike fundamental. We are becoming indifferent to theories, groundless enthusiasms, and low out his own highest good. We claim for ourselves the right of our own individual lives; therefore we have lemmings in New York absolutely rotten with tuberculosis. To be turned into these lemmings is to die; but we must allow them to continue, because the man who builds them is an individual claiming liberty. We must allow the unchecked reproduction of the feeble-minded; we must therefore throw into the world criminals and degenerates; because we are living under an anarchy. The other day a man sold a piece of property a thousand feet square for a million dollars, in New York City. He brought it to years before, for $375,000. That man by doing nothing, by sitting down and folding his hands, had won five independent fortunes. It was the men bringing this, that 'produced' that wealth. But we must allow this, because every man has his right. We must allow it because we are individuals, with rights; because we are atoms. It is the philosophy of the 18th century, the philosophy of individualism, gone to seed, running itself out into anarchy."

"But we are under the grip of a new idea. It is an idea of a bloody conception. It is not going to be violent, but it is going to thrust itself before the minds of men suddenly. It is going to be accepted finally by all mankind. It is this: that no longer does the highest good of each individual produce the highest good of all, but rather, the highest good of all people, when attained, is going to produce the highest good of every individual. Closest idealism. These will always be the delight of some, and the devotion of others, but the rank and file of sensible people today, are demanding facts and sane conclusions. We are all nourished by the common every day life, there is no really exalted soul but receives its inspiration and strength largely from the world of men. However high a soul may reach, be sure it roots itself in the duties and thoughts which are common to us all. The outer world by its beauty nourishes the arts, by its order nourishes the sciences, by its goodness nourishes the product of the common life. Each one must contribute his share to this common store. Our destiny is not only to preserve our own integrity but to add to the universal life such moral elements that every one else's integrity shall be secured. We are to give out of our best so that every one else can reach a better best. To strengthen life's foundations, to uncover its beauties, to refine its instincts, to fill it with the fragrance of a rare personality this is the contribution which every one should aspire to make in his earthly existence.

If we fail to do this, it not only affects us, as we have seen, from its character and efficiency, but the general life is less rich and productive. Do not look for great productions or men when the body politic is corrupt. Do not expect to harvest efficiency when the universal life is sterile. Every untruth whether hidden or public adds to the general unproductiveness, and is easily seen and known. It is in this sense that the words of Jesus are forever true. There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed or hid that shall not be known.

RICHARDS IN COURT

Police Didn't Believe His Threat to Commit Suicide

George A. Richards, the man who tried to bluff the police that he had committed suicide, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with illegal cohabitation. Inasmuch as the Lowell police had sent up a warrant for a more serious complaint, bigamy, the case was placed on file and he was turned over to the Lawrence police. It is alleged that Richards was married a number of years ago but tired of his wife soon after the marriage and left her. Subsequently he met one Clara Dion and it is alleged that he was married to her and the pair had been living in Baldwin street, this city. When Richards' first wife, who was in Manchester, heard of the whereabouts of her husband, she notified the police and the pair were arrested. When arraigned in court, about a week ago the case was continued in order that the Lawrence police could serve a warrant. Richards secured bail and a few days afterwards Supt. Welch received a letter supposed to be sent by Richards which stated that he was ashamed to appear in court and intended to commit suicide by drowning himself in the Merrimack river and in about nine days his body would be found in the river between Lowell and Lawrence. The story did not throw the police off the track, however, and Saturday

Richards was arrested in Manchester and brought back to this city.

Larceny of Rain Coat
A man who gave the name of James B. Kelli was called upon to answer to a complaint charging him with the larceny of a rain coat belonging to George R. Dana, the well known automobile man. Inasmuch as the government was not ready for trial the case was continued till next Monday.

Neglected His Children
William Landry after being found guilty of failing to provide support for his three minor children was sentenced to five months in jail.

Drunken Offenders
Bernard F. Higgins was sentenced to the state farm but appealed. Peter McEane, a parole man, will be returned to the state farm. Dennis Kennedy was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail. George L. Ferris was fined $5, one first offender was fined $2 and five simple drunks were released.

James T. Ganley, of this city, was arrested Saturday night by Captain Bryson for the Lawrence police. Ganley is well known to the police of New England and only recently completed an 18 months' term in jail.

QUARTERLY MEETING Of District Council, No 5, Union St. Jean Baptiste

The quarterly convention of District Council, No. 5, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amérique was held in Amesbury yesterday under the auspices of St. Jean Baptiste council of the latter place, Jules Roy, president. The affair consisted of a high mass at the Sacred Heart church followed by a dinner and a meeting in the afternoon in the spacious quarters of the Amesbury council in School street.

There were delegates from Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, Amesbury, Newburyport, Forge Village, Salem, Lynn, Danvers and Ipswich. Present at the meeting also were Henri T. Lecloux, Esq., of Nashua, president general of the union and Rev. J. B. Labossiere, pastor of the Sacred Heart church.

The delegates arrived in Amesbury at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and they were escorted to the beautiful building in School street known as St. Jean Baptiste building and owned by the council of that name. After a social half hour the party proceeded to the church where at 10:30 a high mass was celebrated by Rev. J. B. Labossiere. The choir under the direction of Mr. A. DeCombes-Pocheron, who is also organist, rendered the Gregorian mass of the second tone, the solo being sustained by Messrs. J. Plante, of Amesbury, E. Daoust of Haverhill, Alno Dalaire of Amesbury and Wilbur St. Charles and E. J. Larochelle of Lowell. At the offertory Miss Whitehouse Boudreau sang in a very charming manner Mattfield's "Ave Marie."

Rev. Fr. Labossiere delivered a successful sermon on the gospel of the day.

FURS

Furs stored in the home, however carefully, come out flat and crushed in the fall. Preservatives frequently fade and often fail to keep out moths. They cannot be thoroughly cleaned by the owner and the risk from fire and thieves must also be considered. The only safe place in summer is in dry, cold storage and under the care of competent furriers.

pointed Rev. J. B. Labossiere, chaplain of the district council, received with tremendous applause. Fr. Labossiere who was present at the meeting was called upon for a few remarks.

At the request of Champlain council of South Lawrence, it was unanimously voted to hold the next convention at the latter place on the second Sunday in July. The following were appointed as a press committee to inform the French and English press of the doings of the council: Emile Garneau, Lawrence; Joseph P. Montminy, Lowell; Andre Brochu, Jr., Amesbury; Thomas Bois, Salem.

A very important item brought before the meeting was the question of holding an annual outing on a large scale, this being suggested by Mr. Bergeron of Lynn. His idea was to have an annual outing each year if possible on July 4 in order to group together the several thousand members of the union and their families. This proposition was well received by the convention and immediately a committee composed of the following was appointed to look into the possibilities of having such events: Mr. Bergeron, Lynn; chairman; Andre Brochu, St. Amesbury; Pierre A. Brousseau, Lowell; Henri Ragot, Lawrence; Mr. Gagnon, Salem; Mr. Caion, South Lawrence; and President L. A. Thibault, ex-officio.

The meeting was brought to a close with a vote of thanks to St. Jean Baptiste council for its cordial reception. There was a large delegation from Lowell present at the convention.

ANNUAL REPORT

Of the Day Nursery Association

The annual meeting of the Lowell Day Nursery association was held Saturday afternoon at the nursery house in Kirk street. There was a large attendance and considerable routine business was transacted. The feature of the meeting was the reading of the annual report. The report in part is as follows:

"The board of officers of the Lowell Day Nursery association herewith presents to the members of the association the following synopsis of the work of the two nurseries and of the temporary home, for the year ending April 1, 1912:

"The year's work which the Day Nursery has just completed has, on its humanitarian side, been a successful one. The total number of children cared for is the largest, with one exception, for the past five years. The children of the nurseries have been visited during the year with more or less illness; but, thanks to the vigilance of the attending physicians and to the intelligent supervision of the matrons, anything in the nature of an epidemic has been avoided and it is perhaps fair to say that our nurseries have escaped with rather less illness than has been the case with other institutions doing similar work.

"The personnel of the board of officers as at present constituted, is as follows:

"President, Dr. Moses G. Parker; treasurer, J. Gilbert Hill, Esq.; clerk, John Jacob Rogers. "Directors, whose terms expire April day: Mrs. Charles M. Williams, Miss Sarah Dempsey, Mr. Daniel F. Carroll, Mrs. Arthur D. Prince. "Directors, whose terms expire April 1913: Mrs. Julian Talbot, Mrs. Lewis B. MacBrayne, Mrs. Nell W. Peabody, Mrs. W. P. Lawler. "Directors, whose terms expire April 1914: Mrs. S. T. Brown, Miss N. E. H. Robbins, Mrs. J. L. Chaffoux, Mrs. Mary A. Plunkett, Mr. Paul Butler.

"The total attendance during the past year has been as follows:

At First Street nursery..... 6250
At the Kirk Street nursery..... 7171
Grand total..... 13,421

"In 1911, the total was 12,645; in 1910, 13,920; in 1909, 12,274; in 1908, 12,553; and in 1907, 12,524. While this year's thus compares well with previous years' attendance it was doubtless affected somewhat by the intense heat of last summer, which kept the mothers out of the mills and thus enabled them to take care of their children for themselves. Among the nationalities naturally largely represented at the homes are Irish, Greek, French, Belgian, Polish, German, Italian and English. The cosmopolitan nature of the work, desirable and indeed necessary in a community like Lowell, is thus clearly indicated."

Mr. John Jacob Rogers gave an interesting talk on "Some Simple Points of Law a Woman Should Know" before the Young Women's Christian association.

less than slaves or chattels. Contrary to a common misunderstanding, the law often protects a woman more than a man; for instance, the 54-hour labor law was enacted in favor of women. In the "halcyon days" of Lucy Larcom, women were working 78 hours a week, beginning each day at 5 a. m.

The question of woman's suffrage was then briefly touched upon, Mr. Rogers giving it as his opinion that whether or not it is the most desirable thing, it is bound to come in the next 10 years.

The audience took advantage of the opportunity given to ask questions, and many interesting points were brought out thereby. The evening closed with a social hour and the serving of doughnuts and coffee.

EASTER PROGRAMS

Were Repeated in the Catholic Churches Yesterday

In all the Catholic churches yesterday the Easter musical programs were repeated by the church choirs. Large congregations were present and the programs were given in an excellent manner.

St. Margaret's Church
At St. Margaret's church yesterday the high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Reardon. He also gave the sermon. He said that the parish lines that were recently announced, whereby the parish annexed a part of St. Peter's parish have been changed back to the original lines.

Sacred Heart Church
At the 7:30 mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday the members of the Holy Name society received communion in a body. There was a large number at the mass. The high mass at 10:30 was celebrated by Rev. James T. McDermott, O. M. I. The sermon was preached by Rev. Bernard McElcher, O. M. I., who took as his subject "Peace Be With You." The musical program was given in a most excellent manner.

Tonight the members of both choirs will be given a banquet by Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I.

St. Patrick's Church
At the high mass at St. Patrick's church yesterday the musical program of last Sunday was given, under direction of Michael Johnson, organist, and Brother Clement.

St. Peter's
The quarterly communion of St. Peter's Holy Name society yesterday was by far the most successful of any of its predecessors, the attendance being such as to call forth words of praise from the pastor and curates of the church. In spite of the unfavorable weather the downpour just coming as the men were on their way to mass, the attendance was not affected in the least and the great broad aisle in the main church was filled as well as sections of the side aisles. Rev. Daniel J. Keltner, Ph. D., pastor, was the celebrant of the mass and the Holy Name choir, under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly rendered a special program. Solos were taken by Mr. Donnelly, David A. Mahoney and Frank J. Kane. Rev. Dr. Keltner read the announcements and spoke briefly in congratulation to the members of the society for such a splendid showing. He hoped that the members would be loyal to the principles of the society, that they would profit from its periodical communions. He was sure that God would bless them and their families for such a grand example and hoped they would attend many more quarterly communions. Rev. John F. Burns and Rev. W. George Mullin assisted in giving communion. At the close of mass the choir and congregation sang the hymn of praise. After mass the members repaired to Lincoln hall where a bounteous repast was served by Mrs. Katherine McQuade and a corps of young ladies of the parish and they were assisted by a hustling committee from the society under the efficient leadership of Pres. James W. Cook and Vice President John J. Watson. Following breakfast, chairs

DAMAGE IS $100,000

A Disastrous Fire in Augusta, Me.

AUGUSTA, Me., April 15.—Damage estimated at $100,000, was caused by a fire which raged for more than four hours early today and which for a time threatened to wipe out considerable of the business section of this city. Starting from an unknown cause in the basement of a fruit store in the Bowdoin block on Water street, the fire spread rapidly to other wooden buildings on that thoroughfare. Hard work by the firemen and the fact that brick buildings were located on either side of the wooden blocks kept the flames from spreading beyond the section running between numbers 131-161.

The old city hotel building and the Theatre Company were destroyed and a tenement house was also wiped out. The losses included Rand and Stearns, bakers, Wilfrid Perry, restaurant; Mrs. Margaret Merrill, theatre, and bowling alley; Nathan Richmond, dry-goods store, Lewis Levine, fruit store, C. E. Daggett, fish market, C. B. Murphy, drug store.

Considerable of the property burned was owned by Charles B. Bowman of Los Angeles, Cal. Occupants of stores and tenements in the burned buildings lost goods worth $55,000 and the loss on the damaged buildings reached $35,000. About 80 per cent. of the loss is covered by insurance.

When the fire started about 25 persons were asleep in the old city hotel building, and they were obliged to flee into the streets, many of them being unable to secure their clothing and effects. The flames reached the building soon after they made their escape and their return to save property was made impossible. Several firemen had a narrow escape from injury when a wall on the rear end of one of the buildings fell. The men were wedged in between the river and the burning buildings and were forced to make a hasty run out of the danger zone to avoid being struck by the falling wall. A few firemen were overcome by smoke which filled the whole business section.

Winter is coming! Now is the time to think of decorating and painting the interior of your home, making it bright and cheerful during the long dreary months when you and your family are going to spend most of your time indoors.

By doing your interior painting and varnishing in the fall you enjoy the benefits of clean fresh floors and woodwork that you lose in the summer when you are out of doors.

A few dollars expended for Low Brothers Stains, Floor Paints, Varnishes, etc., always give the best results. They are elastic, flow on smoothly and evenly and dry with a hard, long wearing surface. It doesn't pay to save a few cents on the gallon and put on inferior varnish, paint or stain that will look cheap when new and crack, check and mar before it's old. ## WHO TOILS HARDEST?

One of the main contentions of the socialists in their onslaughts on capital and the wage system is, that the men who preside over large corporations "do not work." This is undoubtedly a popular delusion. It is true that they do not work with heavy tools such as the pick and shovel; but many a man at the head of some large business envies the man who can drop his pick and shovel at 5 or 6 o'clock daily and have nothing more to do until 7 or 8 o'clock the next morning. These reflections have been suggested by the remark of a corporation man who expressed the wish that he could go to his home at the close of working hours and leave his business behind him. He envied the man who drops his pick at a certain hour and who can enjoy his rest at home without fretting and worrying over things that have gone wrong and other things that are liable to go wrong.

The man who is employed at manual labor does not know what mental worry is. He can forget his work the minute his hours of labor are over and need not think of it again till the next day. Not so with the mill agent, the business man or the professional mental toiler, each of whom is responsible to somebody else for certain results.

What if these results be not attained? What if the outlook is bad? Will the discouraging prospect not follow the official like an avenging Nemesis wherever he goes? Will it not affect his digestion, his nervous system and keep him awake nights? While the man who works on the street, in the sewer or in the subordinate capacity in the factory, has no responsibility outside of working hours, the business man, the high official, the banker and the merchant, feel it all the time. How often are these men worried into their graves by failure in business while their employees are care free and even willing to denounce them as idlers who live on other people's money!

It is not generally known that the hardest labor of all is intense mental labor. It has been said by a well known business man in this city that in the ups and downs of business he has often endured more real mental anguish in one night than the average laborer would experience in the whole course of his life.

It is very easy to make general charges against men who are at the head of large undertakings, and accuse them of not working for a living. The fact is, that most of them work from ten to fifteen or sixteen hours a day, that is, they are occupied mentally during that time with the affairs of their business and many of them cannot drop it if they tried. The frequent business failures, the loss of fortunes with the reverses arising from competition and other causes, bear testimony to the trials and struggles of business men in their battle for success. Yet when they do succeed by patient industry through many years, by frugality, courage and enterprise, they are not likely to enjoy being accused of robbing the laborer of his "hard earned toil." The fact is, that they have worked a great deal harder than did any laborer and they have dearly earned every dollar they possess. The man who invests his money in any industry takes serious chances of loss while at best his dividends may not amount to more than what he would receive if like the mill operative he deposited the money in the bank.

The mental toilers, the men who plan and direct or supervise, are the men who, as a rule, work hardest and longest. They are the men who have to bear the most intense anxiety and all the ills that mental strain entails. If it were possible for the average laborer to realize what one of these men has to go through, we do not believe he would be willing to change places with the mental worker, or if he did we believe he would probably wish he were back at his former job on which his wages were secure every Saturday night and he was free of all responsibility except in business hours.

THE END OF THE MILL STRIKE

It is gratifying to know that the industrial conflict that has retarded business in our city since March 26th is soon to terminate. While the strikers have scored what may be termed a victory, it is to be regretted that the mills will remain closed for another week, but perhaps this prolonged shut-down will prevent entrenchment later on. The mills in New Bedford after granting a 10 per cent. increase have already planned for a period of entrenchment in the summer. The Lowell mills will probably find it difficult to catch up with their orders by working continuously through the summer and fall.

The mill business has been as good this year as at any time during the past six years, and it must have been a serious blow to the local factories to lose a month's business. It was certainly a very great loss not only to the operatives but to the business men of the city to have mills closed for an entire month.

We believe the operatives will all return to work next Monday with the best of feeling and determined to do their utmost to promote the interest of their employers. The 10 per cent. increase will mean considerable in the long run as it will give the operatives at least $10,000 a week more than they had been receiving under the old schedule.

The operatives have won the respect of the community on account of their orderly conduct during the strike, and the agents have apparently done the best they could in granting the ten per cent. increase. They claim that the rate of wages paid here before the change was higher than that of Lawrence or New Bedford. Moreover, it is understood that one of the reasons for delay in announcing the increase was, that two of the local mills cannot afford it, their financial condition being less satisfactory than that of the others. All, however, were obliged to grant the same increase in order to settle the strike, and hence it is to be hoped that the operatives will accept the offer in the right spirit and thus end the strike for the benefit of all concerned.

THE SUN COMPLIMENTED

The Sun has received many compliments for the active part it took in bringing about a settlement of the strike. The Sun at all times stands for fair treatment for labor and due respect for the rights of others. If we had no factories we should have no operatives and our city would soon go off the map as a textile centre famed throughout the world. The Sun wants industrial peace under equitable conditions as that alone will protect the interests of all classes.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Providence Journal: The barest list of the kindly services performed by Miss Clara Barton during her long life of ninety years is impressive. Her energies were attracted wherever suffering existed, and on both sides of the ocean her marvelous philanthropies were gratefully recognized by such decorations and diplomas of honor as governments use to express their formal appreciation. Her career was as truly heroic as that of the bravest soldier for whose wounds she cared. She carried her benevolent ministrations to the battlefields of the Civil War and to those of the Franco-Prussian conflict a few years later; she alleviated the distress at Johnston, when a disastrous flood overlanded the Pennsylvania troops, and at Galveston, when a tidal wave swept the city from the Gulf of Mexico. The Red Cross is a noble monument to her memory and to her genius for organized and effective benevolence.

Always he pulls to a policeman. It may make things easier for you if you ever are arrested.

If it is true that men are what they eat, perhaps we have the explanation of the fact that so many New Englanders are has-beens.

Barlett's execution. At the last moment an appeal is made to the governor by the condemned man's family, but there is nothing the governor can do as he reads the law. This gives the attorney for the defense an opportunity to talk on capital punishment in a manner that gives a very clear presentation of this much debated question.

The governor, however, remains steadfast in his position, and apparently all hope is lost, when Dumont is brought, dying into a room. He had been sentenced to prison for perjury in connection with the trial and at last his conscience got the better of him and before breath left his body he whispers to the governor the fact that he killed Creighton, thus establishing Barlett's innocence.

"THE COUNTRY BOY"

"The Country Boy," Edgar Selwyn's great comedy hit, which comes direct from its successful engagement at the Park theatre, Boston, will be presented at the Opera House Saturday, April 20, matinee and night. The cast includes the well-known names of Ed Clayton, Helen Weston, Carolyn Gibson, Mrs. Charles G. Crane, Ida Glen, Marion Stephenson, Kate Donnelly, H. Dudley Hawley, George A. Wright, Joseph Kaufman, Alfred Moore, Walter Allen, J. Horwitz, George H. Wender and J. Hartman Rooder. The story of "The Country Boy" is that of a young man from a small town who goes to New York city to make his way. In the great city he is immediately caught in the treacherous undercurrent of metropolitan life, and loses sight of his goal and the stimulus for his ambition through the dazzling influence of an unscrupulous city girl who puts him through his paces and only throws him over when his last cent is gone and he has lost his job. On the verge of being put out by his landlady, he is rescued on a suicide, but he is rescued in the very nick of time by a newspaper man, with a healthy, optimistic view of life, who, in the cleverest manner imaginable, succeeds in restoring the lad to his original self respect and enthusiasm, at the same time starting him away from the city and back to the shelter of his own home town where he afterwards finds the success he thought could only be gained in the city.

MONTGOMERY AND STONE When Montgomery and Stone come to town local theatregoers who greatly enjoyed them and their company last year will be glad to welcome, with the two star comedians Miss Blossie Hope, the dainty little soubrette, whose dancing gave so much pleasure last year. Miss Hope is a Boston girl who did her earliest noticeable work in "Miss Hook of Holland" and "The Dairy Maids." It is said that she is slated for a very important role in the big musical comedy which Mr. Charles Dillingham is getting ready for the Globe theatre, New York, for next season.

"THE RUNAWAY" Miss Billie Burke is at her best in "The Runaway," the comedy to be seen here soon. The New York critics agree on that point. One of them says: "Miss Burke never has appeared so cunning, so witty, so altogether fascinating as she does in the role of Collette, the country girl who runs away and smuggles herself into an artist's studio and heart." In the play Collette is but eighteen and the Collette of Billie Burke looks that age. She has a dash, she is kittenish, she is Billie Burke grown younger and still more winsome. She is the Peter Pan of player ladies—she positively will not grow up.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

The usual run of eight big acts on the bill at Keith's is gone one better this week for nine acts are offered, all of the A1 order. The special or extraordinary attraction is the celebrated Sullivans Troupe of pipers, singers, dancers and acrobats direct from Scotland and one of the biggest novelties in vaudeville. The Lancers' Lancer company present a droll sketch entitled "Heaps of Hilarity" which apply, describes the act presented. Johnson Howard and Lisette, the three tramps have a burlesque baseball game as a feature of their funny offering. Carney and Wagner are singers and dancers but not of the ordinary kind. Their work is clean and new. "Oxyd" Oxyd, a well known in Knights of Columbus circles as the youngest member, sings and talks in a classy act, assisted on the piano by O. E. Story. The Three Romans present a novelty in the athletic line. They are two men and a woman and they perform all sorts of acrobatic stunts on the perpendicular ladders. Evans and Video, behind black faces, hand out songs and recitations. Dogmar Dunlap and Elsie Folke are two charming musicians with a charming act, performing on the harp and violin and singing besides. Then there are the pictures, all forming one of the strongest bills of the season.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

That highly artistic Irish singing scene sensation in four parts, entitled "Erin's Isle," the feature attraction in this week's program at the Merrimack Square theatre, promises to score one of the biggest hits of the season. The act is a bright combination of clever acting and rich Irish humor that go to make one of the most delightful bits of entertainment which the patrons of this playhouse have had an opportunity to enjoy in some months. Those who are in the cast are recognized for their superior ability in this particular kind of play.

Steele and McMaisters are comedy roller skaters who introduce many laughable features. Their act is a most amusing one and will keep their audiences in a merry mood from first to last.

Edna D'Amico, known as The Queen of The Air, introduces a sensational series of thrilling stunts in mid air. This young woman has played most of the big cities of the east and has scored heavily in all places.

Betty Beauverre, assisted by Willard Reed and Miss Nancy St. John, presenting a novel sketch entitled "Columbus Pastimes." Will be an added attraction that promises well.

The photo-plays for the week will again be up to the high standard of the past. Among the feature pictures will be "The Redemption of Greek Joe," "Is He Eligible," "A Pie Worth White," and others just as entertaining. The views of present-day events will also prove amusing.

Tonight the Merrimack Square Theatre concert orchestra will feature selections from Leo Falke's Viennese light opera, "The Dollar Princess." Patrons of this playhouse wishing to have their favorite seats reserved for them from week to week are reminded that they can be accommodated by having their names placed on the subscription. What not try it? It costs no more. Box office telephone 2050.

EVER TAKE AN INTERNAL BATH?

It is the new and scientific Nature-cure for many ills.

A most interesting method of Internal Bathing is now being shown and explained by the doctor, Dr. J. B. Cascade, and is different from anything else ever used for the purpose.

You have undoubtedly noticed that constipation and biliousness, besides bringing on much more serious ills, make us feel nervous, yellow, blue, and to think or work in fact, about 50 per cent. efficient.

Accumulated waste in the large intestine always causes these troubles, and the old methods of ridding ourselves of it are only partially effective. They force Nature, too, instead of assisting her.

The Internal Bath, however, is taken perfectly naturally—you just use the appliance and warm water—it assists Nature instead of forcing her, yet it rises the system of the poisonous matter much more thoroughly than any drugs—it keeps one regular, too.

Inasmuch as many thousands are using and praising the J. B. Cascade, and the most enlightened physicians are prescribing it, it would seem worth everyone's while to see the Cascade at the Riker-Jaynes drug store in Lowell, and let the principles and operation of the system be thoroughly explained—this, of course, involves no obligation whatever.

At a foot-note, "Why Man of Today is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient."

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

One of the cleverest playlets ever written will this week be presented at the Academy by the Stock company and is a highly dramatic production entitled "Quitting the Game." New settings for the stage have been prepared and with the proper electrical effects will no doubt satisfy the most exacting. San Francisco, the most the educated feel, is going to put over some rent dancing, and combined with piano playing of the ragtime variety will introduce a new act to Lowell theatregoers. Walter Lee, another clever terpsichorean artist, brings some new stories and songs. Good motion pictures go to make up the show.

SENSE OF VISION

Produced by Ether Waves, Says Mr. Cluin

Believing that the solution of numerous nervous disorders that have so far baffled the medical profession will be found in the correct understanding of the nature and action of ether light waves and the effect of these waves on the nervous system as revealed through the eyes, Mr. John J. Cluin of this city has, after years of study and research, made what he believes to be a very important discovery, and his desire now is to demonstrate it to the public. Writing to the Keystone Magazine of Optometry, Mr. Cluin says: "The study of causes that lead to crime, drunkenness and suicide does not belong to any particular profession, and most assuredly is a proper matter of study and investigation for the progressive optometrist. I believe the opportunity to solve the most perplexing question of human disability lies within our power and it, therefore, behooves us to exert our best efforts to the task for the relief of human suffering and the glory and advancement of the most interesting and important of all the professions."

In conversation with a representative of The Sun, Mr. Cluin said: "I believe that I have made a discovery that will be of great benefit to mankind and all I want is an opportunity to demonstrate it. I am not selfish in the matter at all. I think I have made an important discovery and I want to give it to the world. Talk with me. I have tried every way to get the recognition necessary for a complete demonstration and understanding but it seems that when I get near the opportunity I am pushed back. I want the world to know how to prevent the nervousness that results in drunkenness, crime and insanity as a result of eye troubles. I wrote to the Carnegie Institution of Washington thinking perhaps that that institution might take the matter up, but I found that work of a direct pathological nature does not lie within the scope of the institution. They advised me to seek preliminary publication in an appropriate scientific journal, so that my work might be brought to the attention of those who would be particularly interested in it and that I have done. I have had articles published in The Keystone Magazine of Optometry.

This discovery, said Mr. Cluin, consists in the fact not heretofore recognized that certain phases of eye trouble such as results from constricted vision where a double image is cast upon the retina, lead to nervous headaches, extreme irritability, epilepsy and in many cases insanity and suicide.

During the progress of the trouble criminal traits resulting from mental anguish due to the continuous mental disturbance often appear and can be checked only by the cure of the trouble which usually lies in the muscles of the eyes. This may be remedied by a regular system of exercises calculated to bring about the proper action of both eyes so that the dual image received will be fused as one when cast upon the retina. Here is an illustration from Mr. Cluin's article. Another interesting illustration of the effect of motion is that of a girl attending the high school, who complained that the enthusiasts affected her heart. The teachers ridiculed such a statement, claiming that the swinging of Indian clubs was healthful and beneficial in the development of the body. They did not know that if the motion of the clubs and arms of 400 or more students was not properly relieved by the eyes a disturbance of the brain in the visual centers would result, and the centers that control the heart or other centers would be also affected. Carelessness would be thus as well as motion of light are disturbing factors, with far-reaching effect and immense variation.

MERIT IN MEDICINE

The continued success of a medicine depends entirely upon its merit. For nearly forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been demonstrating its worth among women, in the greatest of all remedies for female ills, and the tremendous volume of letters on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from grateful women in all parts of the United States and Canada, are ample proof of its merit.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a good, old-fashioned remedy and enormous quantities of roots and herbs are used every year in making it the standard remedy for female ills.

The Lowell baseball team played the St. Anselm's college team at Spalding park Saturday and won by 24 to 3. It was the first game of the season and the Lowell players showed up in great style. The Lowell players showed that they are the same batters of old and they sent the ball to all corners of the lot.

There was a good attendance on hand considering the chilly weather and all are satisfied that Lowell will be well represented this year. ## SCENE AT BROOKLYN BALL PARK, WHERE DISORDER MARRED OPENING OF THE SEASON

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

BROOKLYN, April 15.—Although Charley Ebbets, president of Brooklyn baseball club, has declared that the disorderly scenes which marred the baseball opening at Washington Park on April 11 were not due to any lust for gold on his part, he is still being panned by the fans and critics for admitting some 3000 more persons than his enclosure would comfortably hold. The seating capacity of the stands is about 16,000 people, but about 25,000 entered the gates. The aisles were packed, and the field was so crowded that the players were not able to move around comfortably. Two outfielders were just a few feet behind the infielders, and the backstops had some difficulty in doing their work. The newspaper men had great difficulty in covering the game. Mayor Gaynor, who threw the first ball, occupied a box for awhile, but after the first inning it was impossible for him to see the game. The police made room for his honor a few feet away from the home plate. It would be a good thing for the big leagues to govern the actions of the various clubs and prevent such scenes as accompanied the opening game in Brooklyn. Baseball is our most popular sport, but there is a limit to the patience of a fan. Upper picture shows close play at home plate—Catcher Phelps of Brooklyn touching Snodgrass of the Giants. Umpire Klem is in the background. Arrow shows Mayor Gaynor; lower one police keeping crowd back.

Held at the Dracut Rifle Range

The members of the rifle teams of the four local companies of the militia held the first of the five men team shoots at the Dracut range Saturday afternoon and there was great interest in the work of the men. The contests were very exciting and the men showed that they didn't lose their eyes during the winter season.

Company K got away with the total, 278, while at the 600 yard range, the G men led with a total for that range of 57. Sergeant Tobin of M made the best individual score, getting 61 out of a possible 75. Company G kept some of their best shots in the back-ground and came out in second place. Captain Walter R. ## BIG CONVENTION

Of Christian Endeavorers to be Held Here

The committee which has charge of the arrangements for the annual county convention of Christian Endeavorers in Middlesex county which is to be held next Friday, met Saturday night at the First Baptist church and the different sub-committees reported progress.

The general committee, Frank J. Spooner chairman, reported that the delegates would be welcomed by Mayor James E. O'Donnell for the city and by Rev. George F. Kennett in behalf of the churches of Lowell. Rev. S. W. Cummings and Rev. J. M. Craig will conduct the devotional services afternoon and evening. New speakers announced will be G. P. Wilder who will speak for Somerville and M. P. Neighbor for Cambridge for the next convention. Cambridge and Somerville are rival candidates for next year's convention.

NIXON AND FLYNN

Will Meet Here Friday Evening

Matchmaker Billy Gardner has arranged a strong program for this week's meeting of the Lowell Social and Athletic club. As the meeting will be held on Friday night, April 19th, a genuine holiday program is to be given. For the main bout Billy Nixon, the lightweight champion of New England who comes from Cambridge, will meet Eddy Flynn, the ex-amateur champion of Lynn. Both these boys are well known. Nixon is the boy who gave Batting Nelson such a great bout at the Armory club a short time ago. He is a great boxer and is among the best at his weight in the country. Flynn appeared here a short time ago and defeated Johnny Gallant in a very fast bout. Since entering the professional ranks Flynn has not been defeated. This bout will be of 12 rounds. In the semi-final Chester Bernard of Lynn, who is going along at a great clip will meet Young Boyle, the clever Lowell boy. These are scheduled to go eight rounds. In the first preliminary, which will be of six rounds, Billy Willis of Forge Village and Young Joe Grim of Boston will clash. Both are very fast. Grim has been at the game some time and has put away some of the best men around at his weight. The other preliminary will be furnished by Young Gardner Brooks against an unknown. The boy to meet Brooks has not yet signed, but suffice it to say he will be a good one. Brooks has yet to meet defeat and has started in to train for the bout. The show is a very strong one and it is expected that all the members will take in the holiday bill. The first bout will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock. The meeting will be held in Mathew hall and Billy Gardner will referee.

Several of the "rookies" in the Lowell squad look awfully good.

Matty Zieser, a Mexican, has arrived in Lowell and comes as a part of the deal with Milwaukee in which Fisharty figured. Zieser is a pitcher, and Hugh Duffy, his former manager says that he has the goods.

This afternoon the Lowell team will play with the Hostetler baseball club at Spalding park. The visiting aggregation is said to be one of the speediest of the semi-professional teams of New England. The lineup of the visitors will be: Abbe of, Brennan 3b, Duest 2b, Morrison lf, Deemond rf, Martin or Gustafson ss, Seampson 1b, Garland or Morgan c, Burbank or Elderson p.

A big crowd will go out to Spalding park, weather conditions permitting. Wednesday afternoon, when Providence, headed by Fred Lake, will come to town. Providence has a very strong team this year, but Manager Gray hopes to pass out a surprise on Wednesday.

The Ponies have organized for the season of 1912 and expect to have a strong team and would like to get a game for Saturday, April 20, with any team in the city. Send all challenges to Pony club, 259 Lakeview avenue.

The Young Americans of Wiggintville would like to challenge any 13 or 14 year old team in Lowell for April 19. Send all challenges to Linwood Wilde, 14 Kensington street, City.
